Legislature Cool to Mandatory Shelters

Decisions Are Given in Ryan and Ashby Cases

Justices Rule on Requests

No Action Likely Till March Term

The Appellate Division yesterday afternoon handed down two decisions involving Ulster County kickback cases, one in the Edwin W. Ashby perjury case and one in the Morgan D. Ryan bribery case.

The court denied an application by Ashby's counsel seeking to re-settle an order of the Appellate Division which had reversed the judgment of conviction on the question of law. In a technical move Ashby's counsel sought to have that order resettled reversing the conviction on the law and the facts.

Motion Adjourned to March

The decision of Justices Bergen, Coon, Herlihy and Reynolds held that "the order as entered correctly reflects the decision of this Court" and a motion to dismiss the indictment was adjourned to the March term of the Appellate Division.

Ashby was convicted of perjury after a trial by jury.

Morgan D. Ryan was indicted last August on charges of bribery by the regular March grand jury after a prior conspiracy indictment returned by the Special grand jury had been dismissed.

Tompkins Motion Denied

Yesterday, the Appellate Division, which had previously held the August bribery indictment valid, said in effect that Ryan's request to have the Court of Appeals review that decision stands, and the Court denied the application of Special Prosecutor Bernard Tompkins to vacate the order of the Appellate Division which granted Ryan the right to carry his appeal to the State's highest court.

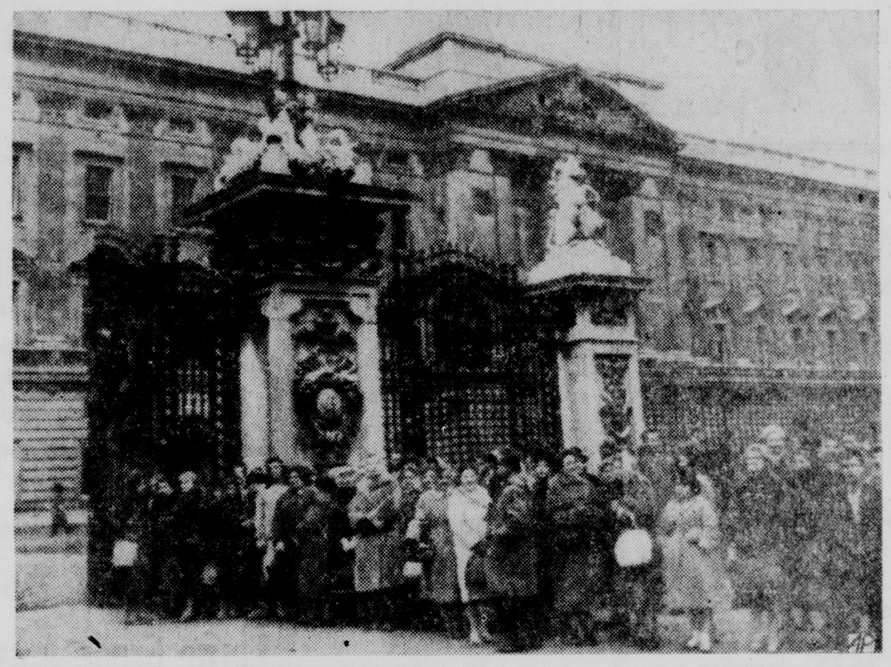

In its decision the Appellate Division said,

"Motion to vacate the order permitting petitioner to appeal to the court of Appeals denied on the grounds that it now appears that an appeal has been taken to the Court of Appeals within the terms of such order. Any application relief in respect to a stay pending that appeal must be addressed to the Court of Appeals." Concurring were Presiding Justice Bergen, Coon, Herlihy and Reynolds.

Haver Denies Delay Plan

An order of the Appellate Division had been sought by the prosecution to set aside the stay in the Ryan case so that it might be moved for trial. The application was based on the thought that Ryan's counsel, N. LeVan Haver, had sought to delay the trial until the Special Investiga-

Britons Await Royal Birth As Doctors Stay With Queen

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's doctors were called to Buckingham Palace today and stayed at her side, indicating that her baby may be on its way.

An announcement that the Queen was in labor was believed likely shortly.

Cheers for Philip

The prince was assured by the Queen's obstetrician, John H. Peel, he could safely leave the palace.

The prince, clearly in high spirits, wisecracked his way through an after-luncheon speech.

"I'm sorry that the Queen cannot be present," he told the lord mayor, "but as you realize she is otherwise engaged."

Doctors Call Early

Earlier the obstetrician, the anesthetist, Dr. Vernon Hall, and two other doctors, Lord Evans and Sir John Weir, called on the Queen about 9 a. m.

Three hours later Hall and Lord Evans were back in their offices attending to other patients. Weir and Peel stayed at the palace.

Prince Is Assured

Two Measures On Medicines Seen Rural Area Blow

Two bills have been offered in the state legislature which are of concern to proprietors of country stores which now have a license to sell proprietary medicines, and also to residents of rural areas who would be deprived of a close place of purchase of such proprietary medicines.

Under bills offered by Senator Brydges and Assemblyman John DiLeonardo amending the Education Law, the law would be extended to rural stores now licensed to sell these proprietary medicines, in the same manner as now applied to city food stores which are now prohibited from handling these medicines.

In rural areas where retail druggists do not exist, a country store may now obtain a license to sell these medicines.

Senate Bill Inc. 1067, is worded as though it permits registered stores to continue as the only retail outlet for a "deleteri-

Brown Ave. Home Fire Smoky One

Blaze Is Checked In One Apartment

A blaze, which firemen said could have started from a cigarette, badly damaged one section of a two-story, three-family, frame, duplex dwelling at 12-14 Brown Avenue this morning.

Fire damage was confined largely to the first floor apartment of Mrs. Edna Gross on the left side of the building, but heavy smoke spread elsewhere in the house.

Blaze Spreads Fast

The building is owned, and occupied on the first and second floors, right, by Curt Upright. The other tenant is H. Wiebernelt.

The blaze started in a couch and had spread rapidly to other areas of the Gross apartment before firemen arrived.

Use Five Streams

Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations, the Wicks and Excelsior companies and the Wiltwyck Volunteers, with Capt. Edwin P. Murphy in charge, answered a call at 9:43 a. m. Five streams were used in checking the blaze.

A call at 7:21 a. m., followed a report of smoke in the office building at 44 Main Street owned by Arthur Atkins. Firemen found a smouldering rag in a metal container under a cellar sink. That also, it was noted, could have started from a discarded cigarette.

Body of Missing Barge Captain Found in River

Police were notified at 9:45 p. m., Wednesday that the body of Jacob Hope, 53, of 5903 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, a barge captain, reported missing late in November, had washed ashore earlier in the night at Newburgh.

Hope, a local report said, had left New York on a barge Nov. 22. It stopped first at Newburgh to deliver stone. It came to Kingston with a cargo of sand and docked near the Miron Building Products Co., Inc., 60 Ferry Street, at about 12:15 p. m., Nov. Nov. 28.

Police learned that Hope had been seen later on that date, but he was not on the barge when it was picked up by a tug and taken to a dock at the Calianan Road Improvement Co., South Rondout, nor did he show up aboard when the barge was due to be towed back down the Hudson with a load of stone.

Mrs. Hope notified local police that the body had been found and was identified through credentials by Newburgh police. The body was taken to the Doulin Funeral Home, 18 Montgomery Street, Newburgh.

Herter Holds Safe Arms Plan Urgent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today the spreading production of nuclear weapons makes a safeguard disarmament program urgent because soon almost any country in the world may get the power "to trigger off a nuclear war."

Could Become Unmanageable

In a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon, Herter said "we are not so concerned with regard to the free nations which might be the next to produce nuclear weapons, but we are concerned lest the spread become wholly unmanageable."

He added:

"The more nations that have the power to trigger off a nuclear war, the greater the chance that some nation might use this power in haste or blind folly."

It was Herter's first appearance before the press club since becoming secretary of state, and he made it an occasion for a major address in relation to the forthcoming new East-West disarmament talks.

Herter said the United States is approaching the talks in earnest hope of reaching some accords with the Soviet bloc which will begin to bring the dangers of nuclear war under control.

Hope Others Know Risk

"We approach these new negotiations," he also said, "with some hope that the Soviet leaders may be coming to realize that the arms race offers unacceptable risks. This realization could induce them to attach a high priority to progress in arms control, as being in their own national interest."

Five Allied nations will meet with the Soviet Union and four Soviet bloc countries at Geneva March 15 to begin a new round of general disarmament negotiations. For some weeks Western negotiators have been meeting here to shape proposals for the conference.

Herter made no specific reference to the fact that less than a week ago France made its bid for membership in the great power nuclear monopoly by exploding a nuclear device. But this event has brought renewed worry over the world about the expanding possession of nuclear weapons.

Voluntary Approach Suggested

Tax Relief Would Cover Some Costs

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Rockefeller administration's one and one-half billion-dollar program for mandatory construction of fallout shelters in homes and buildings crashed into strong opposition from legislators today.

A task force appointed by Gov. Rockefeller proposed Wednesday that all property owners be required to build shelters—at their own expense—by July 1, 1963.

$200-310 Estimate

The State Committee on Fallout Protection, which drafted the plan, estimated the cost of a basic shelter for a family of five at $200 if built by the property owner and $310 if built by a contractor.

One influential Republican leader said he was opposed outright to a mandatory plan. Another was initially cool to the proposal.

Several rank-and-file Republican legislators also said they opposed the plan as too sweeping. Some suggested a voluntary approach.

Democratic minority leaders have said they would oppose a mandatory program unless it provided for substantial federal or state aid to property owners.

Council to Get Plan

The Rockefeller task force proposed state tax relief that would cover 10 per cent of the cost at most.

The governor will submit the plan next Tuesday to the State Defense Council, which would help mobilize in the event of a military emergency.

The members include the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general majority and minority leaders of the Legislature.

Rockefeller has not made it clear what effect the feelings of the Defense Council will have on his approach to the Legislature with the program.

The fallout protection committee, headed by Commerce Commissioner Keith S. McHugh, said in its report that Russia's nuclear arsenal was still a threat to the free world.

Sees Many Lives Saved

McHugh said from eight to fifteen million lives could be saved by proper preparation for nuclear attack.

The program calls for constructing shelters in all existing buildings by July 1, 1963, and requiring them in all construction after Jan. 1, 1962.

The overall cost of the program includes a committee estimate of $50-75 per person for shelters—more than a billion dollars—and $15-25 for food and surival supplies. There are 16 million people in the state.

It would cost 132 million dollars for shelters for present school buildings, plus 20 million dollars a year for new construction.

27 Million for State

The state would have to spend 27 million for shelters in present buildings and 4 million dollars a year for a strengthened Civil Defense organization to administer and enforce the program.

Local governments also would incur substantial expense in building shelters for their buildings.

Chicago Man Held on Bad Check Count

A Chicago man representing himself as a priest was arrested Wednesday on a charge of forgery second degree after he opened an account at the Bank of Orange County in the village of Woodstock.

Arthur R. Green, 26, wearing the collar and robes of a priest, appeared in the bank and asked to open an account, depositing a check for $312.50 drawn on a bank in Chicago.

No Funds in Chicago

He then wrote a check for $100 and presented it to the teller who cashed it.

In the meantime, however, Albert Varney, manager of the bank, had called the Chicago bank and learned that the man had no money and had also, allegedly, written some bad checks there.

Returns $100 Cash

Varney located the man, who had been staying in Woodstock for about two weeks, and Green, without protest, returned the $100 in cash.

Commercial Bank Need in Rondout Area Discussed

Efforts to have a commercial bank locate in the area gained momentum Wednesday night when a committee was named to promote the movement at the regular monthly meeting of the Rondout Area Business Men's Association held at Rookies Tavern, 41 East Strand.

The association launched its 1960 program with enthusiasm at the session which was preceded by a roast beef dinner.

Needs Are Aired

The needs for commercial bank facilities in the area were enthusiasticly aired during the meeting and the merchants expressed interest in the move to encourage some commercial bank opening a branch here or a new bank establishing quarters in the area.

The merchants noted that it is difficult for them to operate their businesses without the services of commercial banking.

Committee Named

Manuel Lipton, vice president, presided in the absence of Benjamin Magaldino, who has been called to service with the armed forces. Lipton appointed Elmore Yallum, Henry Singer, Louis Alcon and Morton Levine to work with him in contacting any commercial bank locally or out of town that might be interested in locating a branch in the area.

The committee on the location of the county offices in the Rondout Area reported on the activities at the last meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors. The committee assured

Compromise Held Possible On Welfare Case Workers

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The door was open today for a compromise between Gov. Rockefeller and Republican lawmakers backing a controversial welfare bill the governor was reportedly reluctant to sign.

The measure, passed by the Republican - controlled Legislature, would eliminate a college degree as a requirement for social-welfare workers.

The State Social Welfare Board announced Wednesday it had revised its rules to allow local welfare departments to hire case workers without college degrees.

Assembly Majority Leader Charles A. Schoeneck Jr., a sponsor of the welfare bill, said Wednesday night he had not been notified of the details of the board action. But, he said, if it accomplished the purpose of his bill, he would consider withdrawing the measure.

The sponsors of the bill had said that relaxing requirements would relieve a shortage of welfare investigators, allow better policing of welfare rolls and save taxpayers millions in relief costs.

In other legislative developments:

1. Legislative opposition developed to a Rockefeller task force plan for a one-and-one-half billion-dollar, mandatory program of fallout shelters. Property owners would have to pay the costs of their own shelters. The State Committee on Fallout Protection unveiled the plan yesterday.

2. Conditional legislation to allow local school districts to federate and levy a 10 per cent telephone tax—provided the federal government surrenders the levy—was introduced on behalf of Rockefeller and Republican leaders by Assemblyman Anthony Barbiero (R-Nassau).

3. Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz urged approval of bills that would set state controls on firms that circulated advice on stock market investments. The attorney general said some criminal elements had entered the field and, in some cases, market prices were inflated by advisory services "touting" certain stocks.

4. Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason (R-Delaware) introduced a bill that would allow dairies to deliver to homes up to three gallons of milk for use in dispensers. The present limit is one gallon.

FIVE FIREMEN INJURED—Fire, punctuated by explosions, raged out of control through a block-long industrial building in Clifton, N. J., Feb .17, razing the five-story building and injuring five firemen. Some 600 workers in three firms in the building were evacuated without injury when the fire broke out, and the explosions later forced the evacuation of all buildings in the area. (NEA Telephoto)

Democrat Critics Go Too Far on Defense; Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) said today Democrats have gone too far with what President Eisenhower called "despicable" criticism of the administration's defense program.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, said he thinks the critics Eisenhower denounced without naming at Wednesday's news conference "have been hearing from the people." He added they are likely to hear more when Eisenhower appears on a national television broadcast Sunday night.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said in a separate interview he welcomes what he called Eisenhower's decision to "explain the confused defense picture."

Eisenhower was asked at his news conference whether he thinks the administration has misled the American people in any way or whether any money has been withheld from any needed weapon. He replied:

"If anybody — anybody — believes that I have deliberately misled the American people, I'd like to tell him to his face what I think about him. This is a charge that I think is despicable."

In Richmond, Va., Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), one of the most outspoken critics of administration defense policy, said "I don't know anybody who said the President has misled the people."

But he told a news conference he would speak out in the Senate again next week "to give more facts" about defense. "I believe the American people should have all the facts that won't help our enemies," he added.

Dirksen said Democrats have to take the responsibility for making statements that "reflect on the state of our defenses."

"I think they have gone too far," he said, "and I think some of them think they have gone too far." He added he senses a lessening of Democratic attacks on the defense field.

AMERICAN MENU

Washington's Day Pancakes Are Winter Olympic Treat

FIT FOR hungry Olympic champions (and others, too) are these tart and tender Washington's Birthday cherry pancakes.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

The Eighth Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley, Calif., from the 18th to 28th of February, will take in Washington's Birthday. Many of the 800 athletes from 33 competing countries can be introduced to American pancakes and help celebrate the birthday of our first president at the same time with these light, lusty, luscious cherry pancakes.

Chief chef Peter Rasmussen and the Olympic committee planning menus for the competing athletes include large quantities of fresh, stewed, canned or dried fruits in the meals. Therefore, this is the kind of sweet dish the skiers and hockey players will enjoy.

These golden pancakes can be made with your favorite pancake mix. They are folded in half and served with a slightly tart hot cherry sauce.

While the coffee perks and the skillet heats, you can mix the pancakes. Bake them quickly and serve from a chafing dish or electric skillet so they'll stay piping hot!

Cherry Jubilee Pancakes
(Makes six servings)

Sauce: One 1-pound, 4-ounce can frozen cherries; ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 cup cold water.

Pancakes: Three eggs, beaten; ¾ cup buttermilk, ½ cup pancake mix, ½ cup finely chopped nutmeats.

For sauce, place defrosted cherries with juice in saucepan. Mix dry ingredients together; add to water. Add cornstarch mixture to cherries, stirring until blended. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring very frequently.

For pancakes, combine beaten eggs and buttermilk. Add pancake mix and nutmeats, stirring until blended. Place about a teaspoon of butter in a small (6-inch) frying pan and heat until butter bubbles. Pour in enough batter to coat bottom of pan with a thin layer. Bake until delicately browned on under side; turn and bake on other side. Fold in half. Repeat baking process for each pancake. To serve, place folded pancakes in chafing dish or electric skillet. Spoon hot cherry sauce over pancakes. Serve hot.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Broiled chicken or salmon steak, whipped potatoes, lima beans, enriched bread, butter or margarine, watercress and sweet onion salad, cherry jubilee pancakes, coffee, tea, milk.

Woman Is Sentenced For Refusing Answers

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Angeline Natarelli has been sentenced to 30 days in jail for contempt in refusing to answer questions before an Erie County grand jury investigating gambling.

The grand jury which offered immunity to Mrs. Natarelli, launched its probe after last October's State Police raids of alleged gambling points here and in 19 other Upstate cities and villages.

John W. Condon Jr., attorney for Mrs. Natarelli said he would seek an appeal. County Judge Burke I. Burke said he would permit bail, pending the appeal.

Condon said the probe concerned alleged violations of the state lottery law which prohibits the granting of immunity in such cases. He also contended that the jury had not been lawfully assembled since it had been continued from December, without listing its purpose.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick M. Marshall said the investigation also involved a possible charge of conspiracy, on which immunity may be granted.

He said that the required entries had been placed in the jury record kept by the court clerk.

Oneida Lake Water Called Unfit to Drink

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—You can fish or swim in Oneida Lake but don't drink its waters, the state warns.

The Water Pollution Control Board, in conferring a class B rating Wednesday, said it planned a pollution abatement program for the big lake in Central New York.

Robert D. Hennigan, chief of the board's control section, said Oneida had become polluted slightly by small streams emptying into it. Under the abatement program, the board would be authorized to prevent dumping of sewage and waste into the streams.

Hannigan said most lakes in the state used for recreation purposes have a class B rating.

Quit After $9,955 Payola

Disc Jockey Ashamed Of Record Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — A disc jockey who accepted $9,955 from record companies over a three-year period says he quit because "I was ashamed of myself. I was ashamed of the industry."

The story told by Norman Prescott of Boston was released by the House subcommittee on Legislative Oversight which continues behind closed doors today its hearings on payola.

The subcommittee arranged to hear from Don Masters, disc jockey and record librarian at Boston station WHIL. There was no explanation of why he would be heard in secret.

Two other witnesses were heard behind closed doors Wednesday because of health reasons. They were Harry Carter, president and treasurer of Music Suppliers, Inc., a Boston Record distributing firm, and Samuel H. Clark, former owner of music suppliers and now president of Am-Par Corp., a subsidiary of American Broadcasting Co.-Paramount Theatres, Inc., of New York.

Both Music Suppliers and Am-Par have been cited in payola complaints filed by the Federal Trade Commission.

The subcommittee released Wednesday testimony given Feb. 8 by Prescott, who said he walked out last July from his job as disc jockey on Boston station WBZ. That was before congressional hearings focused public attention on payola practices.

Among other things, Prescott said four Boston record distributors, including Carter's Music Suppliers, sent him payments over a three-year period beginning in 1957.

The four firms and the amounts were listed as:

Music Suppliers, $5,515 including $2,265 in payments on a new car, Dumont Record Distributing Corp., $3,690, Mutual Distributors, Inc., $200, and Records, Inc., $550.

500,000 Indonesians Give Khrushy Best Welcome Yet

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Neutralist Indonesia today gave Nikita Khrushchev the most enthusiastic welcome of his current Asian tour, and he beamed with appreciation.

An estimated 200,000 Indonesians greeted Khrushchev in the airport area and 300,000 more lined the motorcade route into the city as the Soviet Premier began his 12-day visit looking brighter than at any time since he left Moscow.

In High Spirits

Khrushchev, who got only lukewarm receptions from the public in New Delhi, Calcutta and Rangoon, was in high spirits.

He looked healthy and rested, in contrast to the tired, subdued appearance he exhibited during most of his stay in India and Burma.

Indonesia's powerful Communist party and the Communist-run trade union federation, SOBSI, joined the government in bringing out the crowd.

Khrushchev declared full support for the "independent and active" policy of this sprawling young island republic and said the Soviet Union and Indonesia jointly stand for peace, for elimination of colonialism and for "prohibition of nuclear weapons menacing the life of humanity."

Khrushchev hinted in his arrival speech that he may offer the Indonesian government further economic aid during his visit.

He will find the Indonesians in a receptive mood for Soviet offers of aid but determined to cling to their neutralist policies in the international arena.

Sukarno is anxious to get Soviet credits in addition to the 118 million dollars worth already extended.

Negro Minister Says Indictment Is Part of Scheme

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., frequent storm center in Negro attempts to knock down Southern racial barriers, has been arrested on an Alabama charge of lying about his state income tax returns.

He characterized the Montgomery County perjury indictment as part of a pattern "to misrepresent and seek to frustrate the move of persons working to achieve the ideal of freedom and brotherhood." The Negro minister denied the charge as he posted $2,000 bond Wednesday.

"I have always made the most painstaking effort to give an honest and accurate return of my income," said King, who moved here recently from Montgomery to intensify his passive resistance movement against segregation.

Circuit Solicitor (prosecutor) William Thetford said in Montgomery that King was charged with lying about failure to report $31,000 in personal income during 1956 and 1958.

King's salary as pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in the Alabama city was $5,000 a year.

Rails Point To Safety During 1959

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Association of American Railroads said today the rail industry recorded the lowest number of passenger fatalities in their history in 1959.

Their safety performance was nearly 18 times better than that of the airlines, the AAR said in a report based on a preliminary survey of last year's operations.

The railroads had only one passenger fatality resulting from a train accident in 1959, the AAR said, but added nine other travelers lost their lives in what it classed as "train service accidents over which railroads have little or no control." These involved deaths of persons attempting to board or leave moving trains.

The association noted that 257 fatalities were reported by the Civil Aeronautics Board for domestic airline travel last year, and made its safety comparison with the planes on a passenger-mile basis—that is, one passenger transported one mile.

Appeal Is Likely For Costello in Citizenship Case

The court held in a unanimous opinion Wednesday that the federal district court was right in ruling that Costello got his naturalization by fraud 35 years ago. Costello at that time listed his occupation as "real estate."

"We think it obvious," the appeals court opinion stated, "that a wordly wise man such as Costello must have realized that his real occupation was bootlegging and that his dabbling in real estate was but 'dust in the eyes' to conceal his real occupation."

Costello's attorneys did not announce whether they would appeal further. But government counsel expressed belief that they would.

The 69-year-old ailing Costello is now serving a five-year term in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for evading $28,000 in income taxes.

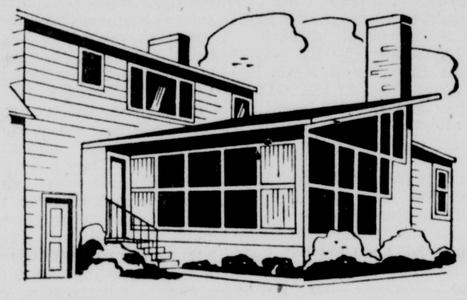

He will be eligible for release, with good behavior, on July 26, 1961. The government has indicated that he might be deported earlier to his native Italy if deportation proceedings are completed before his term ends.

OR HOW ABOUT ROSES?

Now, here's something that would be nice: a water lily pool. The ad says, "No garden is complete without a water lily pool." I've always felt that way, though we've never . . . Oh, look here: wildflowers. They offer something called the "New England rock garden blend" that sounds good—if only we had a rock garden. Maybe we'd better put in a rock garden this spring instead of a lily pool.

Or how about starting a herb garden? There's a company that has all sorts of herb seeds. That would be fun, and so practical; we could have our own chives, sweet basil, thyme, summer savory. Even the names sound good, don't they? And say, here's an ad for prefabricated greenhouses. We could put one out by the garage and grow our herbs there and have an . . . herbarium, don't they call it?

Roses would be nice, too, of course. You know, we've never had real rose beds, only a few plants here and there. Why not put one huge rose bed all along the back fence this year? That would be so dramatic. Or how about . . . John? John, why do you sit there with your nose in a fishing tackle catalogue, when I'm trying to decide on our own garden for this year? John, I'm speaking to you. John!

A survey shows that men dress to please the fair sex. Maybe so. It's a cinch they don't dress to please themselves.

JUST CHARGE IT

Once upon a time, buying something before you had the cash to plank down for it was considered improvident. This has changed. Even the banks, traditionally the champions of sound financial practice, are now busily urging consumers to buy—and buy, and buy some more—on credit.

This is not necessarily a bad thing. Installment credit has knit itself so strongly into our economic fabric that it is never likely to be cut out. Nor should it be. The practice of buying on anticipated earnings helps to keep business and industry going at a brisker pace.

The danger is that credit will be overextended. Some economists think the nation is edging close to an over-extension. Of the 52 billion dollars in consumer credit outstanding, installment debt now accounts for about $39,500,000. This may not be too much; no one can say categorically. Still, 39 and a half billion dollars of installment debt must be regarded as a warning flag. The retail economy thrives on credit. But too much of a good thing can make even a healthy man sick.

Defense isn't a political issue, says Republican Senator Mundt. Democrats dismiss this as wishful thinking.

REDS IN THE DOGHOUSE

The Communist party in the United States, according to the House committee on un-American activities, has been looking forward hopefully to a new era of growth. Its hopes have been dimmed considerably — though perhaps unwittingly — by that redoubtable comrade, Nikita Khrushchev.

The Russian premier, who talked peace and disarmament during and after his visit to the United States, has roiled the placid water by returning to his old demand for an end to the occupation of West Berlin. This attitude bodes no special good for the coming summit conference. Neither does it reinforce the hopes of party members in this country, hopes nurtured by Khrushchev's reportedly having convinced "large numbers of Americans that he is sincerely working for peace."

Khrushchev's frostiness may melt at the summit meeting, or during President Eisenhower's visit to Russia. Until then, however, the party faithful in America should plan to stay in the doghouse. In fact, we recommend that they take up permanent residence in that most suitable abode.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

MOVIE PROBLEMS

In 1947, the major studios of the motion picture industry met at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York to discuss the box office resistance of the American people to pictures manufactured by personnel who were known to be Communists, pro-Communists or fellow-travellers. Out of that meeting came "The Waldorf Declaration of 1947."

Subsequent to this, various efforts were made by individuals, groups and even management to evade the rigidities of this declaration. Various blacklists were devised, some of them correct, others outrageously incorrect. The most blacklisted of all writers and artists were the conservatives who were kept out of studios for years because of their patriotism. In due course, a voluntary committee of four men joined with management in the major studios and set two specific goals:

1. Those who were not Communists, those who were unjustly accused, were given an opportunity and a technique for clearing themselves of the charges made against them;

2. Those who could be established to be Communists were given an opportunity to expose themselves.

Of the first category, my estimate is that more than 300, among them many principal personalities in motion pictures, went back to work. However, while this was happening, the United States Supreme Court ordered the large studios to divorce the ownership of theatres from the ownership of studios, block-booking was prohibited, television became popular and the motion picture business became disturbed.

Clever men, mostly from outside this industry discovered a method for licking some of the problems which the major studios faced: They imported cheaply produced pictures from abroad, particularly from Italy. It was not long before all motion picture companies were making pictures abroad, utilizing lower wage employes, dealing with Communist unions to which they paid check-off dues even for American players and bringing into this country some astonishingly indecent films.

The public response was mixed. The larger, well-established studios obtained funds by selling surplus real-estate and old films to television. A large number of irresponsible and even amoral independent companies went into the business. Then came the great spectaculars of Cecil B. de Mille and Mike Todd and pictures were again making real money.

Two important efforts have been made in recent years, principally by independents, but soon followed by the older studios:

1. To smash the various codes of decency;

2. To restore the right of Communists to work.

Otto Preminger produced two pictures which practically smashed the established codes of decency—"The Moon Is Blue" and "The Man With the Golden Arm." The exhibition of these films was widely fought but the battle was lost. Since then a large number of questionable pictures were exhibited which in earlier years would not have been shown. Also motion picture advertising has deteriorated.

Now Otto Preminger and Kirk Douglas have given employment to Dalton Trumbo who has thus far not chosen to make any effort toward clearing his name of the Communist taint. Nedrick Young has been employed by Stanley Kramer. Martin B. McKneally, the National Commander of the American Legion, responded to this repudiation of The Waldorf Declaration by the following:

"I stated that the American Legion will marshal all necessary resources to alert its membership, the general public, loyal Americans in and out of the film industry and motion picture exhibitors, to the official records of the people involved, and to the implications to both the U. S. industry and to our country of this situation.

". . . We cannot see on what basis Mr. Kramer finds it 'reprehensible' for us to tell the people what appears in congressional documents concerning Nedrick Young, whom Mr. Kramer has hired and whose product he will offer to the public. In 1953 Mr. Young was asked by a Congressional Committee if he were a member of the Communist Party. The American Legion will publish the testimony. The public will have the information through the Legion if through no other medium of public information."

The American Legion and other patriotic organizations desire to know whether the motion picture industry repudiates The Waldorf Declaration of 1947 and if not, what they intend to do about those whose actions indicate repudiation. Some of the motion picture people feel that the atmosphere has changed and that Communists should be permitted to find work in the motion picture industry.

Obesity, Smoking, Worry Are Enemies of the Heart

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The greatest modern physician, Dr. William Osler, used to tell his students that the best way to avoid hardening of the arteries was to choose the right parents.

If you can't follow Sir William's advice, here are some suggestions that may help you:

Postpone vessel disease, if you are still young.

Control it if you are older and already show signs suggestive of arterial hardening.

Maybe reverse the hardening process if you have already run into difficulties.

If you're not already under a doctor's care, consult a physician, preferably one who knows your family background. If you're a member of an arteriosclerotic family, try to persuade your children to follow your example.

Your family physician will probably want to check your weight and blood pressure, X-ray your chest and get your electrocardiogram and basal metabolism.

Of these, the last item has greatest immediate importance since it may enable your doctor to prescribe thyroid extract for you to help control your weight.

If you've not yet started to put on weight, keep a close eye on the scales. Try to maintain your self at your best weight. That may be below average if you come from lean stock like the Gary Coopers and Fred Astaires. It may be above average if your folks are on the hefty side like Jackie Gleason or some of the wrestlers you see on TV.

In all honesty, I must advise that if you must smoke, smoke a pipe. Better still, don't smoke.

Don't get so intent on your vessels that you send your blood fats skyrocketing from worry.

Don't flop down in the old rocking chair and let your muscles get flabby either. Keep fit with some sort of simple exercise like walking, gardening,. carpentry,. horseshoe. pitching, .horseback riding, croquet, golf or tennis

For the present don't add to our farmers' other economic burdens by boycotting the natural fats. Milk, cream and butter are still food staples—not poisons—as some food faddists would have you believe. And there still is no breakfast dish to compare with bacon and eggs.

Finally before you spend your good money on any miracle food or product, consider well the opinion of the Federal Food and Drug Administration to the effect "that any claim, direct or implied, in the labeling of fats and oils and other fatty substances offered to the general public that they prevent, mitigate, or cure diseases of the heart or arteries is false and misleading and constitutes misbranding within the meaning of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act."

Next, a suggested basic diet for more flexible arteries.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — That "new spirit of Camp David" is a dying duck, if not already a dead one.

It came out of the egg a little over four months ago when Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev came to visit President Eisenhower. Their Camp David talks and communique were supposed to hatch eased tensions and usher in friendlier relations.

In keeping with that, the Big Four leaders still plan to assemble in Paris in mid-May for their long-planned summit conference. They will go through the motions of discussing the German situation and Berlin. But the chances of any settlement being agreed to are slim.

Secretary of State Christian Herter says that even if the Big Four agree to further talks on Germany, they will have to be carried on by the Big Four foreign ministers.

That was the pattern after the Geneva summit meeting in 1955. American, British and French leaders thought they had a German agreement with the Russians then.

The foreign ministers met to work out the details. They settled nothing. So "the new spirit of Geneva" died after seven months. And the cold war continued four years.

AT CAMP DAVID, President Eisenhower and Secretary Herter may have thought they had a firm commitment from Khrushchev. He agreed to lift the Communist ultimatum to make a separate peace treaty with East Germany and turn over to it Berlin corridor control.

But now the Warsaw Pact countries—Russia and her European satellites — have renewed their threat. The only difference now is that there is no time limit on it.

This leaves Berlin what it has been for the last 15 years, the world's greatest danger spot.

In one way, it is good to have the Russian position made clear this far in advance of the summit. For it will stiffen western attitudes. There will be no going to Paris in May with dukes down and a willingness to concede a point here and there for the sake of reaching an agreement in the spirit of Camp David.

SIGNS OF SUCH WEAKENing already were appearing.

Talk has been heard on the need for the western powers to be more flexible. A suggestion has been made that the West might negotiate on recognizing an independent East Germany in exchange for Russian agreement to continue the present western control over West Berlin.

There has been talk of letting the Russians turn over their control of the Berlin corridor to East Germany, on the theory that the East Germans might be less tough.

There even has been talk of reducing the American, British and French garrisons in West Berlin.

None of these proposals has been made officially. The most that has been conceded is that allied troops in West Berlin could not be reinforced.

But it is by devices such as these that the Russians, remaining adamant on their own position, whittle away at the western position, weakening it.

THE STUPIDITY OF THE 1945 armistice agreement on Germany is now generally conceded. By it, the western allies turned over to Russia provinces which are now a part of East Germany, in exchange for American, British and French occupation of West Berlin.

But the western powers are now stuck with this agreement and must stick to it. For the United States to go back on its pledges to the West Germans is unthinkable. Their security is not considered negotiable at the summit, in the spirit of Camp David or for any other reason.

Why Russia Grants 'Aid' Its Own People Could Use

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—While Soviet Premier Khrushchev tours Asia and boasts about how many billions of dollars of "aid" the Soviet Union is giving to "underdeveloped" nations, he never lets his own people know what he is spending abroad. For the Soviet Union itself is in many respects one of the most underdeveloped countries in the world. If the censorship within Russia didn't prevent the people there from knowing how the product of their labor is being wasted abroad, they would surely revolt.

The greater part of the Soviet Union, for instance, is a country of darkness. It does not have electric lights in most of its territory. The total generating capacity of the Soviet Union—both electric light and power—at present is about equal to the normal increase the United States will have made from 1958 to 1961. In other words, it is estimated that the Russians by 1965 will have less than half of the electric light and power of the United States.

As for coal, crude petroleum, natural gas, canned foods, cotton fabrics, railroad mileage, freight cars, and many other articles, the Soviet Union is anywhere from 30 to 50 years behind the United States. Wages are much lower in the Soviet Union. The approximate buying power of the worker there is about $1,000 a year, as compared with $4,700 for the average worker in the United States. The farm situation is even worse on the Soviet side. In the United States the average farmer produces enough for himself and 20 other persons, plus more to spare, whereas in the Soviet Union the average farmer produces enough for himself and four other persons—with nothing left to spare.

The latest figures, however, show that the Soviet Union is throwing more than $3.6 billion around the world to aid "underdeveloped" countries, which sums could be much better spent on the Soviet people directly.

Credits granted by the Soviet Union to the United Arab Republic alone total $1,182,000,000, of which $304,000,000 went to Syria, and the rest to Egypt, a large part of this for the Aswan Dam.

India gets steel mills from Russia, and the total aid is about $773,000,000 thus far. As for Indonesia, it has received $411,000,000, while $252,000,000 has gone to Afghanistan, and $257,000,000 to Iraq. Ethiopia has gotten $112,000,000.

Even in points as far away as Latin America, the Soviets have put $104,000,000 in Argentina, and have promised $100,000,000 to Cuba.

Aid to Satellites

The Soviet government grants credits, of course, to "satellite" countries inside the Soviet bloc, and these advances now amount to about $7.5 billion, according to Moscow's own claims. Western experts, however, say this is an exaggeration and that the total runs to around $2.25 billion since 1956.

All this money could do much today for the Soviet people if used directly to improve their standard of living. Premier Khrushchev boasts of his program in speeches outside the Soviet Union. He said a few days ago in an address to the Indian Parliament:

"Our wealth, our industry, have been created within a historically short time by the intensive labor of the Soviet people. Although we have no surplus capital, we are rendering ever-increasing assistance to states needing such aid. At the present time the Soviet Union is tendering assistance in the construction of hundreds of industrial plants and power stations in underdeveloped countries.

"We want these countries to get on their own feet, we want them to create their own industry, capable of producing not only consumer goods but means of production as well. This will help underdeveloped countries to develop their own industrial base and speed up their economic development. . .

"The Soviet Union's assistance in the economic development of underdeveloped countries mostly takes the form of credits and loans granted on most easy terms. We get no profit out of that, since we cannot and do not want to enrich ourselves at the expenses of countries to which we are rendering assistance. We are guided by a sincere desire to help the people of former colonial countries in every way possible to attain real economic independence as soon as possible, and sharply raise their standard of life."

Much of the money loaned will never come back. The Soviet people will have to continue their "intensive labor" as they live in austerity. Families often are crowded into a single room. Millions of homes are without sanitary facilities on the premises.

Ignorance Needed

Then why does the Moscow regime keep on exporting capital which could be better devoted to providing the necessities of life, not only to the people of the Soviet Union but to the Red Chinese? Plainly, the Communists believe that they can infiltrate and ultimately conquer many underdeveloped countries. They can succeed only if their own people are kept ignorant of what the leaders are doing. It might be asked, incidentally, if the various propaganda organizations in the free world, including America's own agencies, are stressing in broadcasts across the Iron Curtain this waste of the Soviet people's funds.

As for the United States, it is continuing to plan for about $4,000,000,000 a year to aid to other countries, both in military and economic programs. It is important to be competitive with the Soviet Union and to force Moscow to strain more and more to spend the Soviet people's substance. It's one way to hasten the day of internal revolt within Russia and China, which must come eventually if there is to be a relaxation of tension and an assurance of world peace.

The best that can be said about South's bidding is that he bid every time it was his turn. Of course, he hoped for a better dummy but he could never expect a better result.

If he had simply let East play four spades he would have had no way to beat the contract and, while five diamonds might have been seet, the way the cards lay he wrapped up game and rubber.

It wasn't a matter of any great skill but rather finding the cards the one possible way they could be for him to escape with his life.

West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace. South ruffed and played the ace of trumps. When West dropped the jack, South was able to get to dummy with the ten spot in order to take the heart finesse. When this worked, all he had to do was lay down the ace of hearts and ruff a third heart with dummy's last trump. The three-three break in hearts also came off so South ruffed another club to get back to his hand, drew East's last trump and eventually lost a spade trick.

Question: Is She 'Volunteer,' Or Just a Hard-Worker?

Every time I find myself ringing doorbells asking for money for a fund-raising campaign, serving coffee and orange juice at the local blood bank, or starting in to address postcards for a local candidate I've promised to help elect, I get to wondering:

"Why do they call this kind of thing 'volunteer' work?

So far as I can remember there have been mighty few times when I have ever volunteered for any kind of job. And yet, through the years, I've done just about every kind of "volunteer" work there is to do.

It usually happens like this:

A charming voice on the telephone asks me if I won't give "just a little" of my time to a worthy cause.

Vainly I fumble around for an excuse that will ge me off the hook, but nothing I come up with impresses my caller.

She has a ready-made answer for every dodge and every conceivable excuse, probably because she has heard them all before many, many times.

So the call ends with my agreeing reluctantly to "do my share," and I'm hooked again. And the mail starts coming, giving me last-minute instructions, packets of work material, and so on, each letter beginning: "Dear Volunteer Worker."

I'll bet the country is full of women just like me who are running themselves ragged doing "volunteer work" they wouldn't have volunteered to do in a million years.

We are probably marked as women who can't say "No" to a good cause or to the persuasive voice of a do-gooder. Workers we are, but "volunteer workers" we definitely are NOT.

matter of FACT

A strange plague called the "sweating sickness" swept England for a few years and then disappeared forever. The disease was nearly always fatal, often in two or three hours. It struck England five times between 1485 and 1551, spreading to the Continent only once. The physician Gaius noted the curious fact that it seemed to attack those people who led a lazy, luxurious life—especially idlers who frequented taverns.

General Warns Nike-Zeus Needed As Missile Killer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A surprise Soviet ballistic missile attack would catch the United States "stark naked" unless a missile killer such as the Army's Nike-Zeus is perfected, says Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.

The Army chief of staff, in congressional testimony released Wednesday night, added new fuel to the tug-of-war over the Nike-Zeus development and the general defense debate.

Coupled with Lemnitzer's warning were these two new developments:

Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La) of the House Space Committee said in a letter to President Eisenhower that the 137 million dollars voted by Congress last year to develop the Nike - Zeus should be released. He said such action is essential. The funds have been withheld by the Defense Department.

Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, the Army's research chief, told the House space group the Army had asked that 25 million dollars of the frozen funds be released immediately.

Factory in Ruins, Is Almost Tomb For 45 Firemen

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) - A Big factory that came within seconds of being a tomb for scores of firemen was a smoking ruin today.

Only blackened elevator shafts protruded above the first floor of what had been a four-story factory Wednesday.

A deputy fire chief who had stepped outside the Velveray Corp. building probably saved the lives of about 45 firemen who were inside the plant.

The men scurried to safety down a protected stairwell just before the upper stories collapsed. Zangrando was injured by falling masonry and was taken to Passiac General Hospital in fair condition with back and hip injuries.

Another fireman, William S. Jackson, 52, lost his leg. Two other firefighters were hospitalized.

Deputy Fire Chief Marius Celentano said the two-million-dollar blaze had started from a short circuit in a fabric-treatment machine.

Cuba Ratifies Red Trade Pact

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban Cabinet today ratified the big, sugar-heavy trade pact signed last Saturday by Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

The deal makes the Soviet Union Cuba's biggest customer next to the United States.

In the wake of the agreement, U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter announced in Washington that consideration is being given to cancellation of the system under which the United States pays premium prices for Cuban sugar.

There was no comment from the late night Cabinet meeting on Herter's remarks. But Castro is expected to blast the American secretary tonight when he makes another of his periodic television appearances.

Under the trade pact, the Soviet Union will buy five million tons of sugar at world-market prices over the next five years. It will pay 20 per cent of the cost in dollars, the rest in Soviet products.

Moscow also will bolster Cuba's shaky finances with a credit equivalent to 100 million dollars. It will be repaid over a 12-year period at 2½ per cent interest. Commerce Minister Raul Cepero Bonilla says Cuba will repay the credit with its own products.

George Heittman was appointed to fill the Chairmanship of the membership committee, vacated by Mr. Stuart. No action was taken on the directorship at this meeting.

James A. Howell was appointed to fill his unexpired term on the RIDC committee.

After the business meeting, W. Diffendall of Lake Osiris, a member of the United States Conservation Commission showed slides and gave a short talk on the work of the commission on banding of birds, and determination of their migratory habits.

The next regular meeting will be held March 21, and a representative of Central Hudson, will speak on "How to Attract Vacationers to Wallkill Area." Clifford Hotaling will be in charge of the refreshments.

Included in the group are Betty and Barbara McClung, Karen Rivera, Donna Titus, Jay Terwilliger and David Doolittle, who presented a play and entertainment Saturday, Feb. 13, at the home of David Doolittle.

Entitled "A Valentine Surprise," the play was enthusiastically received by a group of about 20 people consisting of grown-ups and children who attended. The entertainment consisted of:

Sunday's Heart Sunday in Wallkill village was well-responded to and complete returns will be announced by the co-chairmen, Mrs. George Wildrick and Mrs. John Scarzello in the near future. Some solicitors were unable to complete their territory, due to the inclement weather, and they will be calling this week.

The Wallkill Woman's Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday, 2 p. m. in the bank building. Mrs. John Sloan, program chairman, will introduce Miss Esther Schisa, director of nurses in Ulster County, who will speak on the Activities of a Public Health Nurse. Jane Wood, director of the production, has been enthusiastically interested in the amateur theatre since her undergraduate years at Keuka College, Keuka Park, where she was a member of the Arion Club, the college's dramatic organization, as well as the beta Omega cast of Alphi Psi Omega, a national honorary dramatic fraternity.

Last year, Mrs. Wood directed the successful faculty play, January Thaw and the two senior plays, Father's Been to Mars, and Spring Fever. In addition, she directed the senior class production of The Curious Savage, presented during the first semester of the current school year.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Was Good Year Bell Reports '59

A record gain in telephones, better service and improved earnings made 1959 "a good year for the Bell System," Frederick R. Kappel, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, said in his annual report to share owners released this week.

The report went to some 1,737,000 share owners—up about 107,000 from 1958.

Kappel said the accomplishments reflected the efforts of Bell System people (729,000 of them) to devise and market services to fully satisfy individual needs and preferences, increase efficiency and "gain wider public understanding that good profits are as necessary to good performance in our business as they are in any other."

Earnings were $5.22 a share, compared with $4.67 a share in 1958.

Net gain in telephones was 3,298,000—topping the previous high of 3,264,000 set in 1946.

For the fourth consecutive year, the Bell System spent more than $2 billion on new construction to expand and improve telephone service. The 1959 figure was $2¼ billion.

To help finance this program the System obtained about $750 million of new capital, largely from the sale of bonds. Interest rates ranged from 4⅜ to 5¾ per cent.

"High interest rates are only one aspect of rising costs," Kappel said. "Taxes, already heavy, climbed further in 1959. So did wages, which are the largest cost factor in the business."

Taxes on Bell System service last year averaged $3.39 per telephone per month.

"Federal, state and local taxes on operations were $1,690,289,000, equal to $7.66 per share of AT&T stock, or considerably more than the earnings per share of $5.22," Kappel pointed out. In addition, phone users paid directly some $600 million in Federal excise taxes. "Telephone excise taxes are unjust and discriminatory and should be eliminated completely," Kappel said.

The year's record gain in telephones brought the Bell System total to nearly 58 million—96 per cent dial-operated. Some 15 million telephone customers (nearly twice as many as a year ago) now dial long distance calls to points all over the country.

"Telephone service has never been so fast, convenient and dependable as it is today, Kappel said.

Booklet Available On Heart Attack Aid

A new booklet entitled "How to Help in Case of a Heart Attack," published by the American Heart Association, has just been received by Ulster County Heart Chapter, and is available to the public. As the title implies, the leaflet shows how to help in case of a heart attack.

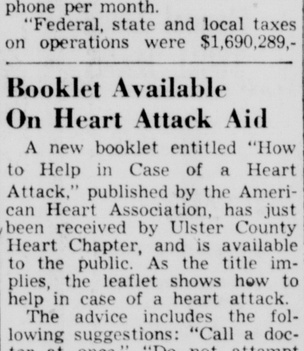

The advice includes the following suggestions: "Call a doctor at once." "Do not attempt to carry or lift the patient without the doctor's supervision." "Help the patient take the position that is most comfortable for him." "This will probably be half way between lying and sitting. He usually cannot breathe comfortably if he lies flat."

"Do not give the patient anything to drink without the doctor's advice." "Loosen tight clothing—such as belts and collars."

"See that the patient does not become chilled, but do not induce sweating with too many blankets."

This leaflet is but one of the many heart booklets available at the Heart Chapter office. Anyone wishing such leaflets may contact the headquarters at 124 Green Street.

Villagers of a remote area in Siberia in 1908 told fantastic stories of huge explosions, flying debris, and the scorched bodies of animals. Scientists in London reported observing concussion waves. In 1921, 13 years after these reports, the mystery was cleared up. Just south of the Arctic Circle, in the wastes of Siberia, a huge cluster of meteors had struck the earth.

Chamber Suggests N. Y. Be Neutral In Labor Disputes

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce believes that the best public interest would be served and the economy stabilized by the adoption of state laws which would help create a more favorable business climate.

Today the following information and opinions were released by the Chamber of Commerce about one phase of the labor laws.

The New York State Laws seem to be seriously deficient in its failure to observe the fundamental principle of neutrality in disputes between employers and employes, according to the Chamber of Commerce. It favors employes and penalizes employers the Chamber believes by paying benefits to strikers when strikes last more than seven weeks, as well as by paying benefits to employes idled by a strike in another place of business of the same employer. Such payments shift the burden of supporting affected employes from striker's funds to the employer's unemployment insurance account, paid for entirely by the employer.

The Chamber believes it would be a great boost for the business climate of New York State to amend the law so that businessmen could count on genuine neutrality on the part of the state when labor disputes are involved.

Assemblyman Van Duzer has introduced a bill, A. I. 2753, to correct the above situation. Support of this, and other similar bills, is recommended by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Scouts Schedule Ponckhockie Area Paper, Rag Drive

Members of Troop 1, Boy Scouts, will hold a paper, rag and scrap metal drive in the Ponckhockie area on Saturday. The morning drive will start at 9:30 and continue until noon. An afternoon drive will begin at 2 p. m. and finish at 4:30.

Anyone in the area wishing to contribute to the drive, who will not be at home, may place the material on their front porch so it can be picked up. Proceeds of the drive will be used for the benefit of the troop camping fund.

Boys of scouting age who live in the Ponckhockie or Rondout areas, are invited to join the troop, which meets each Thursday at 7 p. m. in the Sunday school rooms of Ponckhockie Congregational Church.

200 Greet Paar, Wife in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—Jack Paar flew into Honolulu late Wednesday night. Although appearing fatigued and weary, he still answered questions.

More than ever in the limelight since his dramatic walkout from his television show last Thursday, Paar made clear he was not returning because of more money. What made him decide to return?

Nowhere to Go

"The fact is I have nowhere else to go," he told newsmen. "I'm under contract. They'll not give me another show. I don't know how long I'll last under this grind."

Paar, who has said he quit his show because a joke had been edited out of his program, said NBC officials had told him they were sorry his show had been edited without his knowledge.

"In the future, they'll inform me if anything is objectionable, and we'll be able to fix it," he said.

Paar said he will go back to work with no changes in NBC's policies and rules.

Happy to Be Anywhere

Whisked to an airport lounge, Paar asked newsmen and several friends, "How long do you keep these on? Forever?" He pointed to the leis around his neck. He added quickly, "I hope it's not in bad taste to ask."

Paar said he was "happy to be here, happy to be anywhere."

He was asked whether he had received a raise in salary for returning to his late show at NBC.

Paar frowned and said: "No, there's no money involved. That wasn't the point at all. I never asked for more money."

Paar said he was returning because he is under contract—another 2½ years he said—and because of his friends and several hundred persons who work on his show.

Wanted to Park, Not Have His Car Pushed

MILFORD, Ohio (AP)—Doing a good turn can take a bad turn, W. B. Goodman learned.

Goodman, turning onto a street here Wednesday, saw a car apparently stalled. The driver was making motions which Goodman interpreted as meaning he wanted a push.

So Goodman eased his car into position and started pushing. The frantic signalling continued and Goodman thought that meant "go fast." He speeded up.

Finally a stop signal caused a halt.

The motorist being pushed rushed back and among the unprintable words he uttered, Goodman learned the man didn't want to be pushed—he was trying to flag Goodman past so he could back into a parking space.

Southerners Are Agreed on CR Action in House

WASHINGTON (AP)-Bowing to the inevitable, diehard Southerners reluctantly agreed today to let the House consider civil rights legislation.

Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va), leading foe of Northern-backed civil rights proposals, called a meeting of the House Committee to take formal action clearing the legislation for House action in mid-March. An informal agreement to act was reached Wednesday.

A civil rights bill approved by the House Judiciary Committee has been pigeonholed in Smith's committee since last August because a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats wouldn't turn it loose. Hearings were started last week, but took a leisure pace.

The coalition broke apart Wednesday, under apparent political pressure.

At least three of the four GOP rules committee members were ready to join four Northern Democrats to break the deadlock and send to the bill to the House.

Accuses Investigator

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Cited for doing business on Sunday, Calvin D. Mayne of suburban Oakwood has turned the tables on his accuser.

Mayne and his attorney filed charges Wednesday against Malcolm McDonald, a Dayton investigator, that McDonald worked on a Sunday in order to obtain evidence.

Chessman's Hope Of Beating Gas Chamber Fading

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Condemned Caryl Chessman's last thread of hope, stretched perilously thin after nearly 12 years of tenacious legal battling, suspends today from an effort to switch one vote.

That is the vote of at least one member of the California Supreme Court majority. Wednesday the court—after a series of rapid-fire developments — decided 4-3 against recommending clemency for the death row convict-author.

Chessman is slated to die in the green-painted gas chamber at San Quentin at 10 a.m. Friday. He was convicted in 1948 of kidnaping with bodily harm, robbery and sexual abuse in Los Angeles.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, at sundown Wednesday, noted he cannot grant clemency unless the Supreme Court recommends. The law puts this restriction on granting mercy to men convicted previously of felony. Brown said any further action on his part depended on what happened in Chessman's move today for reconsideration of the 4-3 vote.

The convict's attorney, George T. Davis, said his petition for reconsideration would be accompanied by a request for a hearing on a complete brief supporting the action.

Davis said Wednesday night, after the U.S. Supreme Court, the California Supreme Court and the governor acted or commented on the case, that he didn't have a chance to be heard on the 11th hour clemency appeal.

At a San Quentin news conference Wednesday the 38-year-old, hawk-faced Chessman expressed belief his 12-year court struggle "is all over."

Chessman steadfastly has insisted on his innocence, and he did so again. He said that's why he never has asked for clemency, but for a full pardon. He messaged Brown "to do whatever your conscience dictates."

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The producers of "World Wide 60" and the NBC network itself are walking, eyes wide open, into a controversy Saturday night. The show (9:30-10:30) will play excerpts from a jazz morning service for the Methodist Church.

Undoubtedly, some people will be shocked, but the program describes the religious feeling and sorrow which led the composer—a jazz musician now studying for a Ph. D—to write the liturgy.

Ed Summerlin wrote the music following the death of the composer's first child last year from a congenital heart defect.

"Until about 200 years ago, contemporary music was played in churches," says Summerlin. "Since then, the church has been trapped in an outmoded musical tradition. Today's churches have modern architecture. Modern people attend. Modern clergymen may deliver their sermons on hydrogen bombs. Yet the music played remains part of another, past culture."

Whatever the reaction to the music in the program, it goes into the nation's living rooms sponsored by Summerlin's pastor of Denton, Tex., and a professor of Christianity and the Arts from Southern Methodist University, both of whom discuss the musical work.

Now that the dust is beginning to settle on the Affaire Paar, a number of people — outside the television business — have expressed the opinion to this writer that Paar has hurt himself and his reputation by his actions. "The way Godfrey did when he fired Julius La Rosa," adds one loyal Paar fan. "And Godfrey never got over it."

NBC must have been getting mail capable of spontaneous combustion, if the carbon copies of a few reaching this desk are typical. Such bitter, unrestrained pro-Paar language! Networks, like columnists, learn early to take furious, intemperate letters in stride and to look for a signature before bothering to decipher the hurled thunderbolts.

Herkimer Firm Is Up for Sale, Fund Withheld

HERKIMER, N. Y. (AP) — Standard Furniture Co., still hard-pressed financially despite a citizens' committee fund drive, is up for sale, its president admits.

Stanley D. Earle confirmed Wednesday night that company officials were considering selling the firm to a Herkimer group. He did not identify the prospective purchasers.

The committee raised about $200,000 but Mayor Donald J. Mitchell, its chairman, said the money has not been turned over to Standard Furniture. He refused to disclose the reason the money was withheld.

Meanwhile, Standard Furniture's checks were not being accepted by the Marine Midland Trust Co. because of insufficient funds.

The fund drive started nearly two weeks ago when the firm, one of two companies that are the financial backbone of this community of 9,000, said it needed $150,000 to stay in business.

Workers dipped into their savings and a few even mortgaged their homes. Merchants and business interests contributed and supervising personnel and office workers for Standard Furniture agreed to buy $12,000 worth of company bonds.

Local 3715 of the Carpenters-Joiners Union, which has a contract with the company, pledged $75,000.

Everything Not Rosy

Spirited Debate Detected By Soviet, Peiping Views

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Behind clouds of words about undying friendship and solidarity, indications can be detected of a spirited debate between the leaders of the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties.

The Kremlin chose no less a personage than Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to sign a long article in Pravda, the Soviet Communist newspaper, presenting Moscow's case. Despite the usual wordage about great friendship, the article at times appeared to have a petulant tone.

Less Enthusiastic

One gets the impression the Chinese Communists have been fouling up Nikita Khrushchev's plans for finding a way of living with the Western democracies while communism waits confidently, though a bit impatiently, for capitalism to collapse under the pressure of Moscow's sustained political and economic offensives.

The Red Chinese leaders, much more in need of external tensions now than their Soviet brethren, appear far less than enthusiastic about Khruschev's new ventures into India and Southeast Asia.

Gromyko's Pravda article ostensibly was a salute to the 10th anniversary of the Chinese-Soviet mutual assistance pact of 1950. But he reminded the Chinese at the outset about all the Soviets had done for them in the establishment of new industries in China, in the words of Soviet specialists there, is a steady stream of Soviet equipment to China and "all forms of friendly collaboration."

Gromyko then reminded the Chinese that under the 1950 agreement, both big Communist states expressed readiness to cooperate sincerely in all international activities aimed "at the establishment of peace and security in the whole world."

Five Kremlin Principles

Gromyko also reminded Peiping that the Soviet Union is guided by the "five principles" first proclaimed by the Chinese themselves: mutual respect of sovereignty, territorial integrity, nonaggression, noninterference in internal affairs of other states, equality and mutual advantage, and peaceful coexistence.

The Red Chinese are the ones who have kicked the five principles overboard. They invaded territory occupied for years by India and blatantly interfered in the Indonesian government's campaign against Chinese traders in rural areas of the Indonesian island of Java. Both nations are stops on Khrushchev's latest tour, which heightens Soviet unhappiness with their big Asian ally.

2 Brothers Put On Probation, 3d Will Face Jury

Two of three brothers charged with assaulting Robert Smith, star high school athlete, of 44 Sycamore Street, Feb. 6, were given suspended sentences and placed on indefinite probation by City Judge Aaron E. Klein today.

Booked originally on second degree assault charges, Thomas C. Peoples, 29, and his brother, Joseph, 22, of 104 Abruyn Street, were permitted to plead to the lesser charge of third degree assault, and were given suspended sentences of six months each, plus the probation.

Albert E. Peoples, 19, the other brother, who has been serving in the U. S. Army, at Fort Bragg, earlier waived preliminary hearing, and the case went to the grand jury.

Police said the trio was picked up after a telephone operator had reported that police were wanted near Smith's home. Detectives William Slover and Leonard Ellsworth with Officers Joseph Kivlan and Otto Short were dispatched there.

Information signed by the detectives accused them of assaulting and injuring Smith, who was treated at Kingston Hospital. Police said the trouble had started at a party and Smith had also suffered cuts in the fracas.

Attorneys Richard Griggs and Seymour Werbalowsky, assigned by the court, appeared for the defendants, and Harry Gold for the district attorney's office.

A charge that he had violated a flashing red traffic signal against John Fishtorn, of Hastings-on-Hudson, was dismissed after hearing. He was represented by Attorney Sherwood E. Davis.

Wife of Andre And Father Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Helma Porumbeanu, a prominent figure in the case involving the elopement of heiress Gamble Benedict, had a tearful reunion in court today with her father.

The father, Fritz Schneikart of Stuttgart, Germany, had been unable to get in touch with his daughter since his arrival here recently. He applied to State Supreme Court to have her produced through a habeas corpus proceeding.

Mrs. Porumbeanu is the wife of Andrei Porumbeanu, 35-year-old suitor of Gamble, 19. The pair's January trip to Paris was broken up by Gamble's grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Benedict.

Attorney Robert Hoffman, who represents both Mrs. Porumbeanu and Mrs. Benedict, had been accused of keeping Mrs. Porumbeanu and her 10-year-old daughter in hiding as a means of making it difficult for Porumbeanu to get a divorce.

He wants a divorce in order to be free to marry Gamble.

Promises Bomber Force

LONDON (AP) — Air Minister George Ward today promised Britain a nuclear weapon-carrying bomber force with "greatly enhanced" striking power.

His Royal Air Force budget called for an expenditure of 527,460,000 pounds ($1,476,888,000) for the year beginning April 1—an increase of 36,645,000 pounds ($102,606,000) over the current level.

Seven Sign Pact

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Seven Latin American republics today signed an agreement for a common market they hope eventually will lead to free trade throughout Latin America.

The agreement was signed by representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Paraguay, Peru and Uruguay. Thirteen other Latin American republics are eligible to join.

General Under Knife

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, retired soldier-diplomat, underwent an operation today to improve drainage of a lung abscess for which he has been hospitalized since last October.

Smith, 64, was reported in "very satisfactory" condition after the operation at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Four Candidates To Be Interviewed For Police Jobs

Four candidates for appointment to the police department will be interviewed at a police board meeting tonight to fill two vacancies.

A civil service eligibility list of five names was submitted to the board earlier in the month, but regulations provide for the interviewing of only four prior to selection of two new patrolmen.

The appointments will fill vacancies left by the retirement late last year of Officer Peter Camp and due to the promotion of Bernard Fowler to the rank of sergeant. If appointments are made it will give the force its full quota of 60 men.

Ten candidates for compilation of a later civil service list took a Feb. 6 examination. An eligibility list made from that will not be effective for some time.

To be interviewed tonight are Lewis Jay Keator, 3 Teller Street, who scored a rating of 91; Donald J. Gallagher, 140 Murray Street, 83; Edgar F. Peterson Jr., 24 Browning Terrace, 80, and Richard J. Dempsey, 7 First Avenue, 77. Thomas J. Coffey, of 129 Hurley Avenue, with a rating of 76 was the fifth man on the list.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission for some time has been working on a revision of its regulations and plans to confer with state officials on them in April or May, Philip F. McDonald, commission president, said today.

Boy, 13, Fatally Stabs Stepfather

Police said the boy's stepfather, Vincent Scocozzo, 52, a highway worker, had thrown his mother, Barbara, 32, to the floor and grabbed her by the throat Wednesday night during one of their frequent quarrels.

Thereupon, police said, the boy picked up a nine-inch kitchen knife and fatally stabbed Scocozzo in the back. The wife telephoned for aid.

"I'm sorry, daddy. I didn't mean to do it."

But, said Asst. Dist. Atty. John P. Fay:

"This is a case of delinquent parents."

Her new home overlooks the Ottumwa River where there is a continuous procession of all kinds of pleasure boats most of the year, while cold weather brings skating, ice boating and tip-up fishing.

Three new appointments for future employment have been approved for the Onteora school system. They are Dorothy Parsons and Linda Gray, elementary teachers and Louis Egbertson, business department.

A 20-year-old Saugerties man will be tried Monday, Feb. 29, on a charge of indecent exposure made on complaint of a woman who alleges the act occurred there in the window of his home on Hill Street. Donald Hines pleaded innocent before G. Thomas Rea Jr., village justice, who fixed the trial date on request of John Gotelli, assistant district attorney, who is busy in County Court. Attorney William Curran of Rosendale represents Hines.

Stone Ridge Farm Given Holstein Breeders' Award

Ridgely Farms, Stone Ridge, has qualified for the Progressive Breeders' Award — the highest recognition attainable by a breeder of registered Holstein cattle.

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America has accorded this honor to only 425 Holstein breeding establishments, including 59 in New York. This is the fourth time that the Ridgely has been so recognized.

To qualify for the Progressive Breeders' Award, a Holstein breeder must meet strict requirements in all phases of dairy cattle breeding and management, including production, type improvement, herd health and the development of home-bred animals.

The Ridgely herd completed its latest Herd Improvement Registry testing year with a lactation average—calculated on a two milkings a day, 305 day mature equivalent basis—on 59 individual records of 16,686 pounds of milk and 616 pounds of butterfat.

The herd has also been officially classified for type with an average score of 83.6.

The current award is based on a herd of 113 animals of which 76 have freshened. Sixty-six of these were bred and developed on Ridgely Farm.

A certificate of this award has been sent to the Farms by The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, national organization of the Holstein breed representing over 48,000 members.

A bronze year plate will be presented to the Farms at a meeting of Holstein breeders from their area, to be added to the bronze plaque awarded when this herd first achieved the honor.

The Holstein-Friesian Association has announced the completion of outstanding official production records by area Holstein cows:

Estate of Roy W. Wright, Pleasant Valley—Ellbank Ormsby Jule Penny Ann (4265145) produced 16,159 pounds of milk and 596 pounds of butterfat in 305 days on twice daily milking as a four-year-old. Ellbank Ormsby Jule Ann (4411100) produced 13,806 pounds of milk and 512 pounds of butterfat in 365 days on twice daily milking as a three-year-old.

Engineers' Week To Be Observed

The 1960's will see an outpouring of creative engineering which will open up an immense variety of new markets for goods and services and push our intellectual horizons out into the solar system and beyond.

That's a prediction which will be repeated again and again next week by speakers at engineering society meetings throughout the country as the profession observes National Engineers' Week, February 21-27.

Held during the week of Washington's birthday, the observance features career conferences for high school juniors and seniors, exhibits on engineering achievements, guided tours through industrial plants and many other activities calling attention to the importance of a sound educational background in mathematics and the physical sciences.

In their theme for this year, the engineers have chosen "Engineering's Great Challenge . . . The 1960s." The choice was based on the expected "harvest" in science and technology in the light of the developments of the past decade. Here's a sampling of those developments in the 1950s.

The first man-made thermonuclear explosions, the nuclear powered submarine and the first voyage under the North Pole, space satellites around the earth and the sun, a rocket impact on the moon and a rocket sent around the moon, electric power from atomic reactors, supersonic aircraft flight, jet powered air transports, the discovery of radio emission from hydrogen in space, the discovery of the Van Allen radiation belts around the earth, the overthrow of the parity principle in basic physics, the discovery and use of the tranquilizers and the Salk polio vaccine and the whole family of acrylic and polyester synthetic fibers.

Who in 1950 could have foreseen such a listing of achievements by the end of that decade? As we move into the 1960's, engineering effort is still being applied to each of the achievements above. We haven't even scratched the surface, so to speak, in gathering in the harvest of the scientific and technological breakthroughs of the 1950's.

Meanwhile, the new decade is upon us and we have many more scientists and engineers than we had in 1950. The number of engineers holding the doctor's degree is also much higher than it was at the beginning of the previous decade. Many more engineers are involved in basic research. In fact, engineers are joining their colleagues in the research sciences in everything from the acceleration of subnuclear particles to the determination of the age of galaxies a billion light years away.

From this point at the start of the 1960's it would seem that the major challenges for the coming decade lie in the realm of engineering research and development. These major challenges will almost certainly be in such areas as the control and use of thermo-nuclear fusion (the so-called H-Bomb process) to produce electric power; the design, testing and operation of vehicles capable of carrying man safely through space and returning him to earth; the automating of production and assembly lines and processes in industry; and the designing of electronic computers with the ability to "think" on a level with our best human brains.

None of these things requires any more basic scientific knowledge than we have right now. What is needed in each case is an intensive engineering application.

Their Charlie Brown Gives Lots of Trouble

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—There is one pet the Merkels won't monkey around with anymore. It's a stump-tailed macaque monkey.

Charlie Brown, as he was dubbed a week ago when purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Merkel, now resides in the Seneca Park Zoo.

In a weeks time, Charlie, unlike his more even - tempered namesake, smashed two expensive vases when throwing them at Mrs. Merkel; chewed through a cable in a hi-fi set; ruined the venetian blinds; tore curtains, and munched on cigarettes.

He also took great delight in chasing and tackling dogs in the neighborhood on the city's north side. Animal instincts enabled Charlie to seek out the least likely hiding places for his stock of jungle delight—bananas.

Levitt said Wednesday the bonds will mature in varying amounts from 1958 through 1995. The state guaranteed 500 million dollars of Thruway debts.

Inquiry Promised Of Air Force Book

WASHINGTON (AP) — One congressional inquiry was promised and others were threatened today into the preparation of an Air Force manual which says Communists have infiltrated the nation's churches.

The manual was withdrawn from circulation a week ago and was repudiated Wednesday by the Air Force.

Chairman Melvin Price (D-Ill) of the House subcommittee on military manpower promised an immediate inquiry into the whole Air Force system of manual preparation.

Among other things, the manual says:

Thirty of the 95 persons who prepared a revised standard version of the Bible under sponsorship of the National Council of Churches "have been affiliated with pro-Communist fronts, projects and publications."

In discussing classified (secret) information, the manual said "a foolish remark often heard is that Americans have a right to know what's going on." It said that would be like a football team giving the other side its signals, making a loss almost certain.

The manual bounced into the headlines Wednesday when the National Council of Churches registered a protest with Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. The council is a representative body of 33 Protestant and Orthodox churches in the United States.

The manual is the third Air Force publication to stir up a furor in recent weeks. The others were the "big brother is watching" and "dog-washing" manuals.

Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn) said today he has learned that the Air Force also has a manual outlining "the detailed procedure for operation of an officers' club, including seven different recipes for mixing martinis."

Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn) said he would urge the Senate Armed Services Committee to make a full investigation of the circumstances surrounding the new manual.

Chairman John E. Moss (D-Calif) of the House Government Information subcommittee said his group group wants to know who wrote the new manual, who approved it and who is responsible.

Peekskill Men Buy Rockland Weekly

PEEKSKILL, N. Y. (AP)—Irving E. Cottrell and Francis V. Lough, owners of radio stations WLNA-AM and WLNA-FM here, announced today they have purchased the weekly newspaper County Citizen at New City, Rockland County.

They described the publication as Rockland County's largest weekly newspaper in terms of paid circulation. It is issued each Thursday.

The new owners said the County Citizen would continue under the editorial direction of its founder and editor, Richard J. Kluger.

Legislature Cool

The committee did not estimate this cost.

Business and industrial firms also would have to provide shelters but could adapt basement or other suitable spaces. Owners of large apartment houses could use interior portions of the building as well as basement spaces.

In all cases, the shelters would have to block 99 per cent of the radioactivity.

The basic family shelter would be constructed in a basement of cinder blocks eight inches thick. It would have interior dimensions of 6 feet by 5 feet 4 inches and a height of 4 feet. An opening would be protected by an L-shaped cinder block wall.

Air in the basement would be sufficient to sustain life. Occupants could leave the shelter briefly after three days and the full emergency could last up to two weeks.

Decision Up to Lawmakers

The committee made no recommendations for what would be done in cases where property owners refused to cooperate. McHugh said this would be left to the Legislature.

The plan would allow property owners who built shelters to deduct costs from their income in computing state taxes.

The total deduction would be spread over five years and could not exceed $100 for each person covered by the particular shelter.

Thus, a homeowner who spent $500 would deduct the cost at $100 a year from his taxable income. If he were in the top tax bracket of 10 per cent, he would save $10 a year or a total of $50 on the total cost of the shelter.

Commercial Bank

the members they would be kept well informed of all activities and progress toward the location of some of the county offices in the Rondout area.

Urban Renewal Report

Elmore Yallum gave an interesting report on urban renewal and reviewed progress that already had been made. He stressed important changes that urban renewal would create in this area and contended that under urban renewal this area would become one of the leading sections in the city with the cooperation of all members.

A delegation of Zale Liese and Jack Spinnenweber, representing the Port Ewen Business Men's Association, attended last night's dinner-meeting and spoke briefly on the similarity of the programs of the two associations and the need for close harmony to continue the plans and aims.

The president reported that two new businesses had located in the former Cornell building and that the prospects looked bright for future business firms locating in the Cornell building which has 30 offices.

Frank Short and Kenneth Harris of WBAZ spoke briefly on advertising and what it accomplishes for business men and the association, and of the importance of keeping the Rondout area in the public limelight.

The next meeting will be held March 16 at John Worf's Restaurant on Abeel Street.

Two Measures On

ous" drug, besides licensed pharmacies.

But Senate Int. 1068, defines a "deleterious drug" as one which has a warning or caution on the label, or one which is likely to be harmful in the quantity in which it is sold.

Since two-thirds of home remedies sold by registered country stores contain a caution such as "keep out of reach of children", and if a customer were to consume in one dose the entire contents of a package of any remedy handled in such licensed stores, it would unquestionably be harmful or dangerous. Thus the two proposed amendments read together, would effectively prevent rural stores from selling almost any proprietary medicines.

Rural stores in this area have been requesting both Senator E. Ogden Bush and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson to oppose these two bills.

Decisions Are

tion had been brought to a conclusion, either through the special investigation concluding its activities or through lack of funds to continue the investigation.

Haver denied he was purposely delaying the matter or had been engaged in "dilatory tactics" as charged.

Likely to Go to March

Disposition of the Ryan case now depends on when the Court of Appeals will be able to hear the matter. The Court of Appeals meets February 23, but is reported to have a full agenda. Its next term is not until late March.

The fiscal year of the Ulster County probe so far as appropriated funds is concerned, expires March 31. No additional appropriation has been made in the regular budget for continuation of the probe. However, provision probably will be made in the supplemental budget later in the legislative sessions for funds to conclude the probe.

Says Van Rie Caught Eavesdropping When Log Books Checked

BOSTON (AP) — A Boston policeman testified today Dutch radio operator Willem Van Rie was caught eavesdropping while the officer was examining the freighter Utrecht's log books in New York.

Lt. Arthur C. Cadegan Jr. of the harbor police said that on Sept. 23, three days after Van Rie is alleged to have beaten Miss Lynn Kauffman, 23-year-old divorcee and tossed her overboard, he was on the Utrecht's bridge with the ship's first officer.

Miss Kauffman was a passenger aboard Utrecht on a 44-day voyage from Singapore. The state charges her death climaxed an illicit shipboard romance with the wireless man.

In Seventh Day

Cadegan said his attention was attracted to someone on the other side of the window, as he stood on the Utrecht's bridge.

"He was listening to the conversation," the witness said.

Asked if he knew who the person was, Cadegan replied he did not, at the time. He then identified the defendant as the listener.

This, the seventh day of trial, is expected to reach the testimony of two vital witnesses.

They are Capt. Joseph B. Fallon, head of the Boston police homicide section, and Dr. Michael A. Luongo, the medical examiner who perhaps more than anyone else is responsible for the handsome wireless man's presence in the prisoner's box.

Doctor Disagrees

Dr. Luongo declined to go along with Capt. Fallon's original theory the dimunitive heiress - divorcee died by accident or suicide in a plunge from the freighter Utrecht as the vessel left Boston on a voyage from the Orient. His autonsy report listed numerous injuries and said her death by drowning was consistent with homicide.

Van Rie is accused of beating Lynn and throwing her into the harbor the night of Sept. 18. Her body was found next day on the rocky shore of a harbor island at about the hour the Utrecht reached New York.

The Utrecht's master, Capt. Albert J. De Bruijn, occupied the witness stand most all of Wednesday. The veteran mariner obviously did not enjoy being on the receiving end of interrogation.

He dealt his replies deliberately, giving the impression he had no intention of being swayed by either prosecution or defense. At times it was difficult to understand which side he benefited. He was, of course, called as a prosecution witness.

Admitted Romance

He testified Van Rie admitted to him a shipboard romance with Lynn. He said he thought the word "intimacies" was used. He said Van Rie first admitted and then denied he had a fight with the girl, in whose cabin one of his jackets was found.

The day ended with testimony of several Coast Guard wireless men who handled messages from the Utrecht as she proceeded down the coast for New York. These related to the fact Lynn was missing and gave times at which the Utrecht passed various navigational points.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market mounted one of its best rallies of 1960 as it continued to rebound early this afternoon from the sharp January-February decline. Trading was active.

Key stocks advanced from fractions to 2 points or so while more speculative issues were up 3 to 5 points.

The rebound was a classic follow through to Wednesday's "selling climax" which was capped by a strong recovery drive after stocks were driven down to new lows.

Brokers saw the action as purely, although various news items formed a favorable backdrop. A new high in personal income last month and higher production schedules for the auto industry were encouraging.

Steels, motors, electronics, chemicals, rails and nonferrous metals were prominent in the rise which affected most sections of the list.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2.10 to 215.80 with the industrials up 4.10, the rails up 1.10 and the utilities up .20.

Corporate bonds rose on a broad front.

Carlino Supports Phone-Tax Plan

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller armed with public approval of his telephone-tax plan from Assembly Speaker Joseph Carlino, has placed that key proposal of his 100 - million-dollar school-aid program before the Legislature.

Prospects were uncertain, however, for the stand-by measure that would allow school districts to federate and impose a 10 per cent tax on telephone service.

Rockefeller hopes to take over a federal excise tax on telephones that is scheduled to expire June 30 to raise 70 million dollars in aid to education.

However, President Eisenhower has asked Congress to continue the tax.

Democrats are solidly opposed to continuing the phone tax for any purpose. They maintain that the state has enough money to assist schools without new taxes.

Several Republicans are reported doubtful about the Republican program bill, which was introduced Wednesday.

The measure would impose the tax at the request of school districts. The tax would be collected by telephone companies on a county-wide basis and paid to the districts for school operating expenses. The money could not be used for construction.

Carlino gave his approval in a statewide telecast with Rockefeller on education problems, in which the two glossed over their school-aid differences.

Carlino has said, however, that the telephone-tax should not be considered a substitute for state aid to education.

Rockefeller and Carlino did little more than point out, on the issue of school aid, that Carlino's proposal was somewhat higher than the governors.

Rockefeller has called for 25 million dollars in new state aid for the next school year. The Republican Assembly leader has urged an increase of 70 million in education spending.

Stanton Opposes U. S. Control of Video Programs

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, said today government control of television programming would endanger the freedom of newspapers and other media.

Stanton spoke at a luncheon at which he was awarded the annual Advertising Gold Medal of Printers' Ink, a weekly magazine of advertising and marketing.

He opposed any move that would permit the government to regulate program content.

"Once the government tells three television stations in a city what they must broadcast," Stanton said, "how long does anyone suppose it would be before the government tells the only newspaper in town what it must print?

"Most metropolitan centers in the United States have more competing television stations than competing mass circulation daily papers.

"It would be as logical to seek constitutional reforms to impose government standards on newspapers, because their number is limited by economics, as to regulate programming on television stations because their number is limited by the spectrum."

Benson Bill Would Cut Supports, End Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson today offered Congress a proposed farm bill which would greatly reduce price supports and eliminate production controls for wheat.

This measure, he said, expresses President Eisenhower's preference as well as his own for solution of the wheat surplus problem.

But in line with the special farm message the President sent to Congress last week, Benson said he recognizes that "other constructive approaches may be preferred by Congress."

The Eisenhower message said a wheat bill embracing more rigid controls would be acceptable if it were really effective in preventing overproduction and did not raise price supports.

Benson offered his bill in a statement at a hearing before the House Agriculture Committee. The hearing room was jammed for Benson's first appearance of the session.

It is the Eisenhower-Benson contention that lower supports would discourage production in high-cost areas. This, coupled with a possible greater use of wheat as livestock feed, would be expected to bring a balance between production and consumption and thus end surpluses.

The Benson bill would support grower prices of the 1961, 1962 and 1963 wheat crops at 75 per cent of the previous three-year average market price. This would be in the neighborhood of $1.30 a bushel in 1961 compared with the 1960 level of $1.77.

Under present law, supports may not be less than 75 per cent of parity. Parity is a standard for measuring farm price declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

After 1963 wheat support would be at 90 per cent of the three-year average market price. This latter rate would be expected to work out at about the same level as the 1961-63 supports because during this three-year period market prices would be moving downward.

Benson endorsed a tobacco bill passed by Congress and awaiting presidential action. It would prevent further increases in tobacco supports and to this extent, he said, serve a good purpose in helping hold present foreign markets.

7-4 Vote Sends Rights Bill to House in March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee formally agreed today to House consideration of a civil rights bill next month.

The committee action by a 7-4 vote broke a deadlock that had bottled up the controversial measure since it was approved last August by the House Judiciary Committee.

The rules group provided specifically that an administration-backed proposal for federal court appointment of referees may be considered as an amendment to the House bill.

Voting to permit consideration of the bill were Reps. Ray J. Madden (D-Ind), James J. Delaney (D-NY), Thomas P. O'Neill (D-Mass), Leo E. Allen (R-Ill), Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio), B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn) and Hamerm H. Budge (R-Idaho).

Against it were committee charman, Howard W. Smith (D-Va), and Reps. William M. Colmer (D-Miss), James W. Trimble (D-Ark) and Homer Thornberry (D-Tex).

The committee recommended that the House debate the bill 15 hours before considering amendments. This could mean weeks of debate.

Loses Citizenship

HAVANA (AP)—The U.S. Embassy said today it has formally notified Herman Marks of Milwaukee, Wis., that he has lost his American citizenship because of his service in the Cuban army. The notice went out by mail.

Marks, who joined Fidel Castro's forces during the revolution, rose to the rank of captain and became Havana's chief executioner, directing firing squads against persons convicted as war criminals early last year. He now is assigned to a military unit in Havana.

WASHINGTON DAY DINNER — Principals at the traditional Washington Day Dinner of the Men's Club of the Old Dutch Church held Wednesday evening. L to r, the Rev. Arthur E. H. C. Kessinger Talk Enjoyed

Former Jurist Humorously Touches on Varied Subjects

A word wizard with a wealth of anecdote, a master of the pungent phrase, dry humor and wry understatement, kept more than 300 persons in a ripple of laughter at the annual Washington Day Dinner of the Men's Club of the Old Dutch Church Wednesday evening.

Harold Caldwell Kessinger, a former New Jersey jurist, began his remarks with Adam in the Garden of Eden and concluded, after a wide-ranging commentary on a variety of topics, with Jesus Christ, "an itinerant messenger of good tidings," a unique personality, whose "man-saving message of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man" would ultimately penetrate any curtain, even an "iron" one.

He said that all the armies, navies, kings, parliaments and philosophers of the world had not affected humanity as much as Christ, operating solely through his eternal saving spirit.

He favors patriotism, but not the narrow brand, pointing out that the old-fashioned variety exemplified by isolationism is quite dead, "killed by the Wright brothers," and that no ocean today is as much protection as the moat of medieval times was to the castle which it surrounded.

Some day disease will be eliminated, he opined, venturing a guess that, "barring World War 3," we are going to live a long time. But what are we going to live on, he asked, if we constantly dilute the currency, thus in the end losing it. You can't eternally spend more than you take in without getting into trouble, he said, expressing the view that both parties need men to keep the currency sound.

Looks Like Nixon

As for politics, it looks as if Richard Nixon will receive the Republican nomination, he said, with the vice-presidential nomination a toss-up at the moment. If the Democrats nominate Jack Kennedy he will attract a substantial vote. Kessinger stated. If he should show well in the primaries and the party refuses to nominate him, however, the party will find itself in a difficult position.

If Kennedy doesn't get the nomination on the first five ballots, they'll try Symington, he predicted. He doesn't think Adlai Stevenson, although influential, will be in the race.

Everybody wants the same thing, he told his audience, security for our own country, prosperity without inflation, economic stability and solvency in the currency.

How It All Started

Adam was unorganized, didn't belong to anything but the human race, said Kessinger. There was no delinquency, no Marx to make him a revolutionist, no Norman Vincent Peale to tell him to relax, or a Billy Graham if he relaxed to much. He didn't have to work and had a real good thing, but he was discontented, lonely, missed something —so it was created out of his side to be his equal. She was inexpensive, cost only one bone, he said. They were in paradise. They were living it up. But Eve was curious and ate the apple and she and Adam got the old heave-ho out of the garden into a world where nothing was free. It was a "new administration." Adam became a farmer. The soil was productive and "so were they."

Once 95 per cent of the people lived on the farm, today only 11 per cent, and the government pays a million dollars a day to store food we can't eat, he said.

Today we have nations who put whole peoples in cages like parrots and teach them what to say. "We need to be more than talking birds" and we don't want to be in any cage or covered up behind an iron curtain.

More Organizations Now

Modern man, contrary to Adam, is thoroughly organized, he said. George Washington hoped we wouldn't have political parties, preferring some kind of super-duper nominating committee like the electoral college. Incidentally, he was the unwitting father of our political parties by naming such dissimilar men as Hamilton and Jefferson to his cabinet—Hamilton the architect of the Republican party and Jefferson of the Democratic party.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel was introduced and spoke briefly, saying that his visits to the Old Dutch Church had been quite frequent and that he was always delighted to receive an invitation to hear such excellent speakers and to attend such fine programs.

He drew laughter when he refererd to Clair S. Sheaffer's introduction of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, saying that there had been a "discrepancy" in Sheaffer's introduction of the quartet. Sheaffer had announced that they would sing "over by the kitchen door," he said and that he had been listening intently for a rendition of "Over by the Kitchen Door" ever since without hearing it. The group stood near the entrance to the church kitchen as it sang.

Proud of Appointment

He remarked that he has many decisions to make as mayor of the city, some of which are quite difficult, and that one of the most "sensible" he had ever made was in appointing the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, minister of the Old Dutch Church, as a member of the city board of police commisioners.

Sheaffer, general chairman of the traditional dinner, also drew laughter from the audience in introducing the mayor when he said that the mayor's face was "well-known to all readers of the Kingston Daily Freeman."

The mayor has "lent his face" to every worthy cause, he said. He paused, then hastened to say that he would have to take that back, that he had not yet seen a picture showing the mayor posing with members of the Kingston Board of Education (laughter). The mayor and the board have been in a hassle over several educational issues, including the Dietz Stadium area as a site for a new junior high school.

Shaeffer introduced Edward C. DeWitt, chairman of the ticket committee for the dinner, saying that year after year DeWitt had served in that capacity, doing a wonderful job, and called for a "nice round of applause."

Shaeffer introduced two new members of the staff of the Old Dutch Church, Gerald Anderson, minister of music, and the Rev. David Braun, seminary associate and assistant minister. He again touched the risibilities of his audience when he remarked that Anderson and the Rev. Mr. Braun were "well-known to those who attend church services regularly."

Works From Inside Now

Sheaffer then introduced the Rev. Mr. Oudemool who for the past 25 years has served as minister of the Old Dutch Church, saying that he had been waging relentless war against sin and corruption. He pointed out that last year Mr. Oudemool had been appointed to the board of police commissioners and that whereas, before, he had been working from the outside, he is now working from the "inside."

He said, with tongue in cheek, that it seemed to him that Dominie Oudemool "is working more quietly now" (laughter).

A number of selections were sung by the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America. The group received warm applause.

President William D. Markle of the Men's Club welcomed the all-male audience with brief remarks. He thanked the ladies of the Women's Guild for a fine dinner, Mrs. James Cook for decorations and all who, individually or on committees, contributed to the success of the event.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Oudemool. Richard Talleur led those present in group singing.

Dinner Committee

The dinner committee was composed of Sheaffer, DeWitt, James T. Little, music; Stuart S. Randall, dinner arrangements; Henry Millonig, property technician.

Officers of the Men's Club: Markle, president; Sheaffer, vice president; Lester Long, secretary, and Richard V. Roth, treasurer.

Man Is Convicted For Murder Attempt

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A jury has convicted John Robert Briggs of trying to murder his wife and mother-in-law by pushing their car over a cliff.

Briggs' wife, Norma, 35, sobbed as the verdict was announced Wednesday. She testified in his defense, saying her foot slipped on the gas pedal while the car was parked at the brink of the cliff in the Santa Monica Mountains. But she had testified at Briggs' preliminary hearing that he had tried to kill her and her mother, Mary D. Nilson, 70.

Mrs. Briggs and her husband were reconciled after his arrest. The couple embraced before he was led away. Superior Court Judge Edward R. Brand set next Tuesday for Briggs' hearing on his plea of insanity.

The principal witness against Briggs, 40, was Mrs. Nilson.

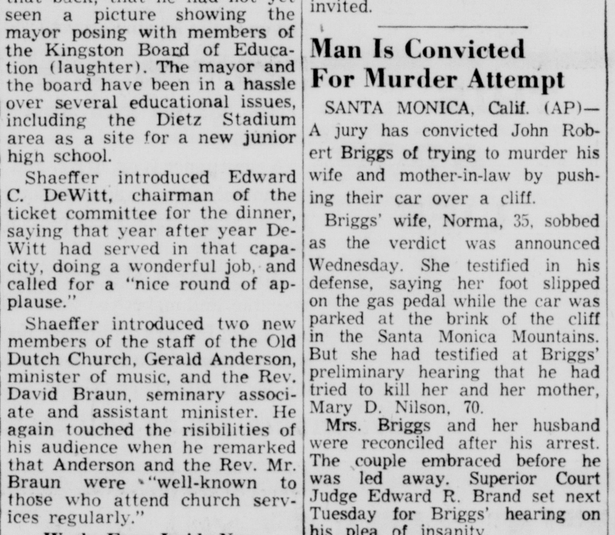

Evanston Rates High For Traffic Safety

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP — Evanston has completed 781 consecutive days without a traffic death —and thereby set a national record.

The goal was reached at midnight Tuesday on the basis of a scoring system devised by the National Safety Council.

It worked this way: Evanston's population, 76,200, multiplied by the number of deathless days, 781, gave it a total of 59,512,200 man days without a fatality.

Evanston, a suburb of Chicago, has always ranked high in the traffic safety listings of cities.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turkey and ham loom as likely candidates for your dinner Sunday, judging by specials at many supermarkets and neighborhood groceries.

Higher prices around the end of the year influenced turkey growers to produce more birds this year than they had planned earlier. The Agriculture Department looks for a 6 per cent higher crop overall, with an increase of 12 per cent for heavy breeds but a decrease of 18 per cent in light breeds.

Bargains in hams stem from continued heavy marketings of last spring's record pig crop. Sharply higher frozen stocks are expected to lessen the usual seasonal swings in pork prices during the late spring and summer.

Pork chops are up sharply over a wide area this week, while fair-sized increases also are shown for beef rib roast in a smaller area. Butter and eggs are slightly higher in a few, scattered sections.

Cabbage, carrots and lettuce are included on this week's list of outstanding buys. Other best buys include Florida celery, mushrooms, small to medium yellow onions, green peas, potatoes, escaole, endive and sweet potatoes.

Early western asparagus is quite expensive, while those who like corn, chinese cabbage, cucumbers, eggplant, green onions and tomatoes will have to pay a bit more than usual.

Outstanding bargains among fruits include eastern apples (although many are reaching a ripe condition and you'll have to shop carefully), grapefruit, oranges, pineapples, bananas and honeydew melons from Chile.

'59 Revolt Leaders Doubt New Uprising Over Budget

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Two veterans of the 1959 budget revolt in the Legislature rule out the possibility of any such uprising this year.

Majority Leader Charles A. Schoeneck Jr. and Assemblyman Eugene Goddard of East Rochester say they do not expect any organized demands for cuts in Gov. Rockefeller's new, $2,035,000,000 budget, now before the Legislature.

Two Controversies

In fact, they anticipate that any arguments will stem from demands for more, not less, spending.

Goddard notes that a major controversy is brewing over allocation of increased state aid to education.

Schoeneck points to growing pressures to restore funds for state operations Rockefeller wants eliminated to save money.

Last year, rank-and-file Republican legislators revolted when Rockefeller proposed record tax increases of 277 million dollars.

The outbreak stalled action on the governor's fiscal program and on most other major legislation.

Peace was restored after legislative leaders softened the tax increases and cut appropriations by about 40 million dollars. These moves won over enough support to pass the budget and tax plan over Democratic opposition.

Schoeneck, then a rank-and-file legislator, was among the rebels who eventually voted for the governor's plan.

Achieved This Year

Goddard, leader of the revolt in the Assembly, points out that the governor's new budget calls for a cut in appropriations, although actual spending is higher.

Appropriations are legislative authorizations to spend money. Often such authority extends into succeeding fiscal years. Appropriations in one fiscal year, therefore, have an influence on spending policies in years to come.

Goddard said that the prime goal of the budget rebels last year was a cut in appropriations and that this has been achieved this year.

While the major protests last year were against allegedly excessive spending, the controversy in the 1960 session revolves around charges he is not spending enough.

The governor proposed an increase of 25 million dollars in state aid to education. Republican Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino, backed by several other Republicans, proposed a 70-million increase.

Rockefeller recommended in his new budget, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, that state operations in various communities be curtailed. Republicans joined in protests against such cutbacks.

Rockefeller's new budget does not propose any increase in state taxes. This has removed one of the basic causes for the 1959 uprising.

THIS GOOD LIFE

The good life is yours because you have earned it, and because you have learned to use the materials and services of a high living standard.

How did you learn about these things? Probably through advertising.

A newspaper is on strike, and business drops 7% in two weeks. In another town, a radio station goes on the air for the first time. Tempo along Main Street picks up, as more people shop for more things.

Advertising is, above all, communication. It tells you what is available, and makes you want to have it. Yes, advertising increases our desire for new and better things. America's record proves it is good to reach for a star. By reaching, we have provided the good life for practically everybody. Can any other nation say as much?

MRS. FILBERT MADE A BETTER ONE

(and the world liked it!)

1. In Martha Filbert's day, the margarines that people bought to save money were less than delicious.

2. So she blended the highest quality ingredients . . . and made a margarine . . .

3. That was delicious. She called it, oddly enough, "Mrs. Filbert's Margarine."

4. Today the others taste pretty good — but nowhere as good as Mrs. Filbert's.

5. When you buy and try Mrs. Filbert's, chances are high that you'll be delighted.

6. But maybe not, because there's nothing everybody likes. Then send us the carton.

7. We'll send you double your money back — that's the Filbert guarantee.

Maid Returning To Stand Today In Finch's Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The slim, teen-age girl whose head he once smashed against a garage wall returns to the witness stand today to testify again against Dr. R. Bernard Finch.

Marie Anne Lidholm, Swedish maid in the doctor's home, was the state's first major witness against him. She is being recalled by the prosecution for rebuttal testimony as the 11-week-old trial nears an end.

The only person who saw Dr. Finch at the home that night—except for Carole and Mrs. Finch—was Miss Lidholm.

The 19-year-old blonde said she heard her mistress scream and ran to the garage. The doctor smashed her head into the wall so hard he made a hole in the plasterboard, she said.

Dr. Finch testified he feared Marie Anne might be armed—and that he knocked her almost unconscious to protect himself.

With only a few more witnesses to be heard, the sensational trial is moving near its climax. Final arguments are expected to start Friday or Tuesday. The probably will take several days.

Wild Dogs Not In Sheep Attack, Authorities Say

A recent raid by dogs on a flock of sheep owned by Byron Hill, Cottekill Road forest ranger, was not from "wild dogs" an investigation has disclosed. The raid was by privately owned dogs, the owners of which are known to the authorities.

Early in February the flock of sheep of Hill was attacked by three dogs, one sheep was killed and several others "chewed up." An investigation disclosed the damage was caused by two hounds and a "mongrel" dog.

Vatican Paper Appeals for Chessman Mercy

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano today pleaded for mercy for Caryl Chessman, who faces death Friday in San Quentin's gas chamber.

The Vatican newspaper said the convict already has suffered for 12 years and declared that it "is no longer a judicial question but only a humane question."

Another mercy plea was made in Rome by the parliamentary group of the Italian Democrat Socialist party. Its leader, Giuseppe Saragat, sent a telegram to U. S. Ambassador James D. Zellerbach to be forwarded to California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Weigh Testimony Of Hearing for Upstate Bank

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Home Loan Bank Board weighed today testimony from a one-day public hearing on an application by the East Rochester Savings and Loan Assn. to establish a branch office in Canandaigua, N. Y.

Francis M. Bradley, executive vice president of East Rochester, testified Wednesday there is an acute need for an additional mortgage lending institution in Canandaigua.

Six Are Opposed

But the application of his firm was opposed by six banks and savings and loan associations with offices in Canandaigua or Ontario County.

Arthur S. Hamlin, president of the Canandaigua National Bank, said he opposed the application for these four reasons:

1. Economic conditions in the Canandaigua area have not changed substantially since the board rejected a similar application.

2. The area's financial needs are now being adequately served by present banks and savings and loan associations in Ontario County.

3. A third financial institution in Canandaigua would be seriously detrimental" to the banks established there.

4. East Rochester would be banned from establishing a branch at Canandaigua if it were governed by state law. He said the state banking department is opposed to the application.

Hamlin charged that East Rochester attempted "to make a case for itself" after it filed its application last year and as a result floated more mortgages than it could safely handle.

Badly Over-Extended

He said East Rochester issued some mortgages in the Canandaigua area last year on borrowed money and is now "badly overextended."

This wouldn't have happened, Hamlin said, if East Rochester had confined its operations to its own area.

Rep. John Taber (R-NY) appeared as a witness for opponents of the application. He testified Ontario County has enough financial institutions to meet its current needs.

Others who testified in opposition to the application were Cyril Kress, vice president of Lincoln Rochester Trust Co., which has a branch in Canandaigua; John Houston, secretary of the Geneva Savings and Loan Assn.; and Constant J. Ninger Jr., president of the Ontario National Bank, Clifton Springs.

Hamlin also read into the record a statement from the Hamlin National Bank, Holcomb, N. Y., opposing the application. Hamlin is a director of that institution.

The Security Trust Co., Rochester, submitted a letter of opposition for the hearing record.

Harold E. Bennett, a Holcomb electrical and heating contractor and hardware dealer, testified another financial institution is needed in Canandaigua.

He said he discussed a possible mortgage recently with John T. Hamlin, president of the Hamlin National Bank, and was told to contact East Rochester.

Gene W. Fisher, a Canandaigua home builder, testified he is forced to secure 90 to 95 per cent of his home mortgage loans outside Ontario County because of tight money policies of local institutions.

He said local institutions want 40 per cent down and terms years.

Hamlin testified that Canandaigua National Bank requires one third down generally and prefers 15-year terms on conventional loans.

Hearing Examiner Joseph Marten took the case under advisement.

CBS Gives Ruling

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System says its radio and TV networks will not broadcast paid political programs that are scheduled simultaneously over any other network.

The CBS editorial board, in announcing the new ruling Wednesday night, said its decision should not affect simultaneous broadcasts of addresses by the President or chief executive of a city or state. It also does not affect paid political spot commercials.

The board said its new policy will give the public a choice of what to hear or see during the [illegible]s coming up this year.

Vast Middle Class Dominates Population

Ike Will Fly to Argentina After Stop at Brazil on Good Will Tour

By BEN BASSETT
AP Foreign News Editor

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — (AP)—Leaving Brazil next week, President Eisenhower will fly to a country which has twice as many cattle as people. Argentina is the place you get a tender filet mignon for 50 cents, where the aroma from meat broilers has become a sort of national perfume —the U.S. backyard barbecue multiplied manifold.

Between the Andes Mountains and the Atlantic, Argentina runs north-south for 2,500 miles to form South America's largest country after Brazil. It is a country where a vast middle class dominates the population of 20 millions, where no one is likely to go hungry.

This is an underpopulated nation.

Two-fifths of it are in pampas—pasture lands which all year long, winter and summer, nourish the cattle and sheep which supply a staple diet and yield a rich bounty for export. Two crops of grain a year are not uncommon in this fertile soil and benign climate. There are riches in minerals, too.

Even so, problems abound.

"This is a rich country but we are poor," says a man you meet on a ranch.

He is unlikely to have electricity unless it is home-generated from a windmill or gasoline engine. He has no telephone and few of the conveniences that mark the average American farm home. He is in about the same status as a poor farmer in the American Midwest 40-50 years ago.

Five of every eight Argentines live in cities. Most white collar workers have two jobs to make ends meet. The man who works six hours a day in office "A" goes over his "B" job for six hours more before he goes home on a packed bus or street car. With two jobs, he can make perhaps $150 to $200 a month.

In this city of four million, the metropolis of South America, the office clerk can find plenty of ways to spend his money. Food is cheap compared to U.S. prices, but many of the things his family wants are expensive. The Estanciera, a Jeep station wagon turned out from U.S. designs in a plant jointly owned by Kaiser interests and Argentine capital, costs $4,000, and he may wait a year for delivery.

It is a great country for outdoor life, especially in this summer season. Soccer is the national game. Buenos Aires has eight major stadiums, the largest seating 120,000. Indoors, the air-conditioned movie houses offer European and U.S. films; Kirk Douglas in "The Last Train From Gun Hill" is at the Normandie today. In record shops you take your choice of tangos or Dean Martin or Arthur Fiedler.

A man named Arturo Frondizi, of Italian ancestry, is president. This is a land where whiteness of skin is an attribute on the social scale. Most of the population has a background of Spanish or Italian blood, but many have characteristics inherited from the South American Indian.

You rarely find a Negro.

Less than five years ago, Juan Domingo Peron was ruling this land. He was its dictator for nine years. He stayed in office largely by convincing the working man that only Peron could improve conditions. Eventually the something-for-nothing philosophy and graft brought Argentina to an economic and political crisis that the army could stomach no longer. It took over after a 1955 revolution in which scores were killed.

While Argentina is back among the Democratic nations, Frondizi still feels it necessary to rule with a strong hand and impose a degree of austerity on the citizenry. Imports are strictly regulated in an effort to bolster the national economy. The Argentine peso lately has strengthened, in ratio to the U.S. dollar, after a period of desperate weakness.

Next week Eisenhower will hear first-hand of Argentina's troubles, from Frondizi and from Alvaro Alsogaray. He is Frondizi's right-hand man in economics and coincidentally Argentina's leading exponent of free enterprise, as opposed to Peron's idea that the government runs things best.

Eisenhower is not apt to see in Argentina a great outpouring of popular welcome such as is expected in neighboring Brazil. The Frondizi government is running scared —there are too many chances that Communists and Peron supporters will use Eisenhower's presence to demonstrate their feelings.

Eisenhower will spend only 21 hours in Buenos Aires and a few hours in Mar del Plata, a beach resort 280 miles south. The major part of his stay will be in Bariloche, a remote spot where he and Frondizi can talk in calm mountain air.

Whatever the welcome, Eisenhower will find here a spirit of drive underlying a blend of agriculture and commerce that makes the nation largely self-sufficient and able to offer mutual opportunities for trade and friendship between the United States and Argentina.

Brotherhood Week Set February 21-28

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller gave a pat on the back today to the National Conference of Christians and Jews as he proclaimed Feb. 21-28 Brotherhood Week in New York State.

The governor said that for the progress the country had achieved in brotherhood in the last 12 months "a large measure of credit is due to the National Conference of Christians and Jews, which continues to labor indefatigably in this vital cause."

Man Dies of Exposure

SENECA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—The body of Joseph McCarthy, 67, was found Wednesday in a field near his home.

Police said McCarthy, who lived alone, had been missing for a week. They said death apparently was due to exposure.

Election Statistics Point To Victory for Dems in '60

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you are convinced that history repeats itself, put a bet down that a Democrat will be the next president of the United States.

The odds favor you, but they could be — and have been — upset.

Rough, Tumble Scramble

All you know is that he apparently will emerge from a rough-and-tumble convention scramble for the nomination. And that his presumed opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, won't run into any contest for the Republican nomination. Going on those facts alone, history suggests, the GOP will be thrown out of the White House.

In the 11 elections since 1832 when the out-of-power party had conflict in choosing its nominee, that candidate has won the election eight times. The modern convention system began in 1832.

And the seven cases in which there was conflict among the "outs" and harmony among the "ins," the "outs" have been victorious five times.

This bit of statistical lore can be found deep in the close-packed pages of a new book, "The Politics of National Party Conventions," written for the Brookings Institution by three political scientists — Paul T. David, Ralph M. Goldman and Richard C. Bain.

The authors themselves draw no conclusions about 1960. In fact their book, a gold mine of research on how the nation has found its presidents and its also-rans, supplies ample evidence that not one but many factors determine the outcome of elections.

Just the same, they consider that the pattern cited here has held true so consistently that "it would seem to have some predictive value" when the party system is working normally.

Could Be Unhealthy

Which suggests it might be positively unhealthy for the Democrats in November, and a boon for Nixon, if by some miracle the half dozen Democratic factions of today should unite suddenly behind a single aspirant.

This is the more true because the "ins" usually do best when they nominate without conflict — by renominating an incumbent president, or selecting his under study, or by letting a controlling group in the party designate the nominee.

In such cases the "in party" has won 16 of 23 elections, or 70 per cent of the time.

Board Authorizes Purchase Of New Tractor at $16,000

Woodstock Town Board has authorized Superintendent of Highways Albert Cashdollar to purchase a caterpillar tractor at a net cost of $16,000 from the H. O. Penn Company of Poughkeepsie.

Action on the only bid received by the board on the piece of road machinery came at this week's board meeting.

Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux announced that sealed bids had been opened by him, Superintendent Cashdollar and Justice of the Peace Rudi Baumgarten.

The list price of the caterpillar was $19,066, with a $3,066 allowance for the old front loader being used by the town. The blade and winch of the old loader will be placed on the new tractor and were part of the bid specifications. Delivery of the machinery was guaranteed by March 1.

Prior to the announcement of planning board appointees, Supervisor Molyneaux said the board had been presented with a check for $88.01 liquidating the account of the old Woodstock Township Association, Inc. which made an unsuccessful attempt to establish a planning board nearly twenty years ago.

Communication Filed

A communication was received from John Ray Mayone of Kingston offering to furnish stenographic transcript services to the board. The letter was filed after brief discussion.

An application by Dayton Shultis for renewal of a trailer permit was referred to the enforcement officer, who will report at the next meeting.

Receipt of $3,622.77 in state aid was announced, as was the transfer of $80,124.21 to the highway fund. A sum of $3,000 was allotted to the recreation fund and a resolution was adopted authorizing the board to forward an application to the New York State Youth Commission for reimbursement of $1,000 for the 1960 recreation program.

It was announced that the new street signs and posts will be installed in a uniform manner throughout the township and at stragetic points and intersections.

Traffic Problems

Supervisor Molyneaux reported that a highway map showing station numbers had been received from the state highway department. He said he would ask for a representative of the department to visit Woodstock in the near future to discuss the entire traffic problem relating to the township.

Maurice Hamilton, publisher of the Woodstock Press suggested that the highway department be asked to install "Woodstock" signs at the entrance to the village.

The board heard request by W. O. Schirmer for a franchise to install a community TV system in Woodstock. This was the third proposal of its kind to come before the board, the other two by Clark's Radio Service of Kingston and Kingston Cablevision, in the past two years.

Several questions relating to the service were directed to Schirmer after he had outlined the scope of the system. He said it would require laying of 8 or 9 miles of cable, and selection of an antenna site and other items adding up to an investment of $25,000.

Schirmer guaranteed clear pictures of five channels—2, 4, 5, 7, 11, and said service would be available within a one-mile radius from the old post office building in the village square. He said original installation would be $125 a set, with a service charge of $3.50 a month. Churches, schools and other non-profit institutions would get free service.

Schirmer proposed a separate system to service the Woodstock Gardens district, where there are 120 houses. He said 250 installations would be the minimum required. Service would be available within three months after granting of the franchise he said. The board tabled the proposal for further action.

Special Meeting Set, Feb. 28 On Woodstock School Plans

A special meeting has been set up by the Onteora Board of Education on Monday, Feb. 29, at Boiceville to further explore the future status of the Woodstock school and other problems related to the booming school population within the district.

The action setting the date followed a lengthy discussion on related items at this week's meeting, following receipt of a communication from a committee representing the Woodstock P-TA.

One of six proposals advanced by the P-TA committee requested a referendum to held calling for an addition of at least nine (9) rooms to the Woodstock elementary school.

In reply to a question from the floor, Philip Gordon, OCA board president, said nothing definite has yet been decided by the board with respect to future building additions or placement of pupils. He said several individual members of the board have ideas of their own but there has as yet been no general policy or plan of action formulated.

Members Studying Plans

Trustee Marie Kleine said the individual members of the board were presently working with figures revealed in several studies of the projected growth of population in order to pool their ideas and come up with the best possible solution.

Commenting in detail on the several P-TA proposals, board members said it already has given thought to establishing polling places prior to the annual school meeting and elections at Allaben, West Hurley, Woodstock and Boiceville.

The proposal to change the annual meeting date from July to May has been under study, president Gordon said. Trustee John Aalto lent his suport to the proposal that the surtax of both the Woodstock and West Hurley schools be shared by the entire Onteora Central Schools district. Aalto said he felt a referendum should be held on the matter and the board should have available figures on last year's taxes.

With respect to the referendum creating the nine-room addition to Woodstock, it was reiterated that the board had not crystallized its long range plans as yet. The nine-room figure was included in a project study by Trustee Aalto, but it represented the idea of only one member of the board, it was emphasized. Aalto took the comments in good stride and said he was happy to have opened up one possibility.

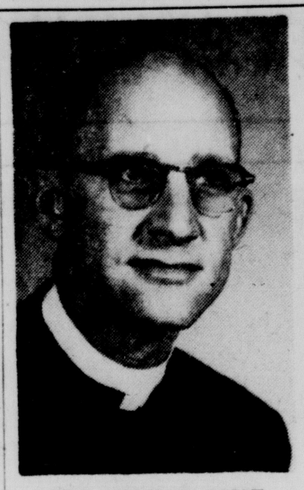

Legal Point Involved

It was pointed out that the administration's early consideration to reduce Woodstock to a K-4 level has been revised because of the education law, which stipulates that a school that is annexed in a central district must maintain its status for a period of five years.

The status can be changed only by a referendum of the voters. Trustee Marie Kleine, reiterating the early position of the administration, said she favored a public hearing and a referendum. Other board members declined to commit themselves either way, pending the special meeting.

Trustee Albert Fox said that wherever expansion is needed in the future he favored expansion as near as possible to the 21-room principle advocated by the state education department. He said that considerable expansion could be expected in the West Hurley-Woodstock area but, in the final analysis, the board should follow the recommendations of the school administrators.

Several members of the Woodstock P-TA committee and representatives of the League of Women Voters unit in Woodstock attended the lengthy meeting.

REV. DAVID C. GAISE

Lutheran Fund Raising Dinner Slated on Feb. 28

The Rev. David C. Gaise, D.D., pastor of Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, will be the guest speaker at the special kickoff fund raising dinner of the Christ Lutheran Church on Sunday, Feb. 28, at 4 p. m.

The building and finance committee is planning this special event as the first step in the stepped up program to raise funds for improvements and additions to the building.

Rev. Gaise, who received his Doctor of Divinity Degree at Hartwick College last June 7, is chairman of the Luther League committee of the United Lutheran Synod of New York. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Wagner College where he graduated from in 1935. He has been president, vice president and secretary of the Eastern Conference of the Synod and has been a member of its executive committee for 10 years.

Rev. Gaise is also vice president of the Kingston Area Council of Churches and a member of the Ulster County Health Board. All members of the congregation and friends are cordially invited.

Permanent Post Goes to Deming

WILLIAM H. DEMING

William H. Deming, acting supervising principal of the Onteora Central Schools District, was voted permanent status at this week's meeting of the Onteora board.

Deming had been serving as acting principal since Aug. 1, 1959, when he succeeded John H. Moehle.

In moving for Deming's permanent appointment, Trustee Arthur P. Knight said he had been observing the principal in action since he came on the board and was highly pleased with his performance. He pointed to Deming's innovations streamlining the meeting procedures and other things.

Trustee West said it was a pleasure for him to second Knight's motion. Other members of the board also joined the laudatory comments.

Woman's Body Found In Scorched Apartment

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. (AP)—The body of Mrs. Gertrude Skiff, 59, was found Wednesday in her scorched apartment.

Police said Mrs. Skiff apparently had been burned Tuesday when a small oil burner on which she was cooking was knocked over. The fire had burned out unnoticed.

The body was found by Oscar Morehouse, superintendent of the five-story apartment house.

Utica Official Convicted, Second Cleared of Fraud

ROME, N. Y. (AP) — A State Supreme Court jury has convicted one former Utica official and cleared another in an alleged building materials fraud.

Joseph N. Bollettieri, former Utica street superintendent, was found guilty Wednesday night of first-degree grand larceny and fraud.

Officials said Bollettieri purchased $956 worth of building materials and charged them to the city.

Both men were indicted by a special grand jury that investigated vice and official misconduct in Utica and Oneida County.

Bollettieri, who was fired last fall from his $5,300 city post, was remanded to Oneida County Jail until sentencing Tuesday. He had been free in $10,000 bail.

The fraud charge carries a maximum penalty of three to five years in prison and a fine not to exceed five times the value of the misapplied property.

Wants Fonda on Sign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton (D-NY) said today he has asked the Bureau of Public Roads to amend its road sign regulations and permit inclusion of Fonda, N. Y., on the exit sign at the New York Thruway's Fultonville, interchange.

Present rules prohibit more than five city names on two signs at each exit on the interstate highway system. Signs at the Fultonville interchange now contain the maximum number of names.

Two Trains Hit Auto

MECHANICVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Albert Hopeck, 60, escaped with cuts and bruises Wednesday when two trains slammed into his automobile at a grade crossing.

Hopeck, of Mechanicville, was trapped in the wreckage for 20 minutes. He was reported in fair condition at Leonard Hospital, Troy.

130 Dressmakers Are Returning After Strike

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP)—Approximately 130 women dressmakers for the Osted Manufacturing Co. return to work today after a two-day strike.

The International Ladies Garment Workers Union said Wednesday the strike settlement had been reached with Spielberger Stores of New York City.

The details of the agreement, which also covered several other Spielberger plants in New York and Pennsylvania, were not available.

The union said the women struck Osted when the plant cut by up to 50 per cent piece work rates.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Three out of four of the nation's corporations are reporting increased profits, even while the stock market falters. And cash dividends continue to rise.

The first 669 nonfinancial corporations to publish 1959 operations show the average gain over 1958 is 19.3 per cent. Only in 1955 did profits take a bigger jump during the 50s. In that year they soared 32 per cent over 1954.

By contrast, 1958 earnings fell 14.3 per cent behind 1957.

Most banks and other financial institutions also have reported increased earnings in 1959, with many records set.

The aircraft industry and its suppliers dropped by 50.5 per cent, reflecting the vagaries of defense cutbacks and order-switching and the costs of retooling from prop to jets for commercial aircraft.

The railroads show a decline of 4.8 per cent. Most of the drop was among lines serving steel communities and plants with steel shortages during the 116-day strike.

For the 669 corporations combined, the total net profit was $12,062,511,000, against $10,106,417,000 for the same companies in 1958. Only 148 show declines this time. But of the 669 there were 32 operating at losses in 1958, compared with 27 in 1958.

Despite the stock market gloom, the prospects for most of the corporations are bright for the current quarter, and many expect gains during the entire first half of 1960.

Federal figures show industrial output rising to a record high in January. Only in recent days have there been scattered reports of faltering.

Corporate directors continue generous in passing along the increased profits to shareholders. They passed out about a billion dollars in cash dividends in January, 10 per cent more than the previous year.

The spectacular gainers in 1959 profits over the previous year were the machinery and machine tool makers, with an advance as a group of 93.7 per cent, and automakers and their suppliers, with a group advance of 92.1 per cent.

Cheese It Is

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Russian violinist David Oistrakh and members of his party on a concert tour in this country caught on quickly to the ways of American news photographers.

Oistrakh, seemingly devoid of artistic temperament, clowned through the picture-making in St. Louis. He managed an exaggerated soulful expression as he tucked the violin under his chin. "Say cheese'," called out Vladimir Yampolsky, his accompanist.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you ever looked around a business office at quitting time?

The white-collar characters in the office zoo start acting the moment they step into the place in the morning. And they are still acting at the end of the day, after eight long, hard hours of shuffling papers from one pile to another.

A Dozen Types

1. The philosopher—at 5:31 (he always gives the company one extra minute of work a day) he rises from his desk and makes the same remark he has made every weekday evening for 34 year: "Well, another day, another dollar."

2. First-out-of-the-door-Freda — This beat-the-clock stenographer starts getting ready to leave at 4:30. She is in the washroom from 5:00 to 5:26. At 5:27 she sprints for the elevator, and anyone standing in her path is in for a broken leg.

3. The nocturnal snooper — He hangs around after all others have left so he can read any mail they leave on their desks. He even checks the wastebaskets if the janitor doesn't beat him to them.

4. The pack rat—His last act of the day is to stuff his pocket with items he figures his kids can use in school—pencils, erasers, library paste, memo pads, carbon paper. If you searched his house, you'd find more office supplies than the firm has in its warehouse.

Humorist Is Another

5. The company humorist—As he steps into the crowded elevator he says loudly: "I suppose you all have been wondering why I called you together for this conference." Everybody laughed when he first made this wisecrack in 1942, and he can't understand why it still isn't funny in 1960.

6. The homing pigeon — Twice before quitting time he phones his wife in the suburbs, and he phones her again in the station just before leaping aboard his train. What does he have to tell her? Nothing, just that he's coming home.

7. The after-hours squatter—he hangs around the office until 8 p. m., just so he won't have to go home and listen to his wife. He'd rather go to a bar, but she doesn't give him enough money for that.

Thrifty Ones Too

8. The thrify Beau Brummel—This two-bit Romeo has a heavy date. But before leaving he shaves in the office washroom so he won't have to go home and use his own soap. He sometimes washes his socks there, too, to save laundry bills, and lets them dry in his desk drawer.

9. The happy hypocrites—They pretend they have to stay late to wind up an important job, but as soon as the office empties they get out a deck of cards and play gin rummy at a tenth of a cent a point.

10. The pseudo eager beaver—He strides out lugging a bulging brief case and, if you didn't know it held only wadded newspapers, you'd be sure here was a guy planning to burn the midnight oil while trying to solve company problems.

11. The passionate house keeper—Neatness is his god. His biggest fear in life is he will die with a runny nose and be buried without a handkerchief. He does nothing from 1:30 until 5:30 p.m. but tidy up his desk so that everything will be in order when he comes to work the following morningm

12. The boss—At quitting time he breezes out with more pep and energy than anyone in the place. Only his secretary knows his secret—he just woke up from his afternoon nap.

Thomas B. Knapp, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton D. Knapp, Oak Ridge, Ellenville, serving aboard the attack cargo ship USS Rankin, is participating in operation "Brigadelex 1-60," a six-week helicopter amphibious exercise at Vieques, P. R.

Scheduled to end in early March, the 4,000 man operation is being conducted from the assault ship USS Boxer, serving as flagship and nucleus of the helicopter squadron.

Faculty of Wallkill School to Offer Stage Presentation

Faculty members of Wallkill Central School are in their fifth week of rehearsal and preparation for their two-night presentation of the classic melodrama, Pure as the Driven Snow, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, March 11 and 12, in Wallkill Central School Auditorium. Curtain time each night will be 8 p. m.

Jane Wood, director of the production, has been enthusiastically interested in the amateur theatre since her undergraduate years at Keuka College, Keuka Park, where she was a member of the Arion Club, the college's dramatic organization, as well as of the Beta Omega Cast of Alphi Psi Omega, a national honorary dramatic fraternity.

Last year Mrs. Wood directed the successful faculty play, January Thaw, and the two senior plays, Father's Been to Mars and Spring Fever. In addition, she directed the senior class production of The Curious Savage, presented during the first semester of the current school year.

Proceeds from Pure as the Driven Snow are for the benefit of the scholarship fund of Wallkill Central School Teachers' Association, and tickets may be obtained from any member of the faculty.

Musical Society Studies Music of Protestant Church

Members of the Kingston Musical Society enjoyed an evening of inspiring music when they met Feb. 10 at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. Protestant church music was divided into liturgical and non-liturgical types.

For the liturgical half of the program a recording of the liturgy and responses taken from a Lutheran service was presented. Mrs. Lester E. Decker briefly explained the various parts of the service after which she played the organ prelude, "Fairest Lord Jesus" by Matthews, Young and the hymn, "Rise Ye Children of Salvation." The Choral Group sang: "Thus Then, the Law of the Spirit" by Bach; and Mrs. Harry Legg and Mrs. Harry Kennedy, soprano and alto, joined in a duet, "I waited for the Lord" by Mendelssohn.

The non-liturgical half of the service began with "O Divine Redeemer" by Gounod presented by Mrs. Ralph Harper, soprano; Mrs. Charles Dedrick, harpist; Mrs. Henry E. Cooley, cellist, and Mrs. Willard Burke, organist The Choral Group accompanied by Mrs. David E. Smith sang, "Lift Thine Eyes" by Mendelssohn and "Agnus Dei" by Bizet. "O'er Waiting Harpstrings of the Mind" by Root was sung by Mrs. Clarence Wolfersteig, soprano. Bach's "Sheep May Safely Graze" rendered by Mrs. Decker, organist, and Mrs. Burke, pianist, completed the program. Mrs. Burke, Mrs. Decker, Mrs. Harry Legg and Mrs. Harper arranged the program with Mrs. George Baron, Mrs. Martin Dienst, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Robert Stedge serving as hostesses.

The next meeting of the society will be held on March 8 at Temple Emmanuel when the theme of the program will be, "Music of the Synagogues."

Potato Products Soar

Frozen and dehydrated potatoes take key positions among the wide variety of potato products available. During the 1950's Americans' use of frozen and dehydrated potatoes has increased nearly five times, say Extension specialists. We eat more potatoes than all other vegetables combined, but the form in which we eat them has shifted from the fresh to the processed.

In 1940 about 1 out of 50 pounds of potatoes used as food was manufactured into potato products. At that time potato chips were the predominant; other products included hash, stews, soups, and potato flour.

Today the proportion of potatoes used as food is 1 pound processed for each 4 pounds fresh. Production of the two products — frozen prepared potatoes and dehydrated potatoes —show the most rapid growth in recent years. Supplies of potato flakes and kindred dehydrated potato products are due to increase in 1960. New plants for the manufacture of these products are opening in western New York, in Maine, and in the Red River Valley in Minnesota.

Frozen and dehydrated potatoes offer convenience at a somewhat higher cost than the fresh. At present in New York City fresh potatoes, at 2 cents a serving, according to prices at one supermarket, were the most economical form in which to serve potatoes. Several frozen potato products that were available offered the most costly alternate to serving fresh potatoes.

The use of dehydrated potatoes eliminates for homemakers the tasks of peeling, long cooking and mashing potatoes for mashed potatoes. Some packages of dehydrated potatoes contain 2 envelopes so that potatoes for 4 servings can easily be poured from each envelope.

Include potatoes on the daily menu for their high food value. Potatoes can be an important source of Vitamin C. Two medium size potatoes, cooked in their jackets, will provide an adult with half of the day's quota of vitamin C. Mashed potatoes, frozen French fries, and potato chips are more costly and less practical sources of vitamin C, since to get the same amount of the vitamin, you will have to eat 2½ cups of mashed potatoes, 40-50 pieces of frozen French fries, and 100 potato chips.

Potatoes are also a fairly good source of iron. Whether you bake or boil a medium size potato or French fry 10 pieces of potato, either provides close to 10 per cent of the day's recommended allowance for a normally active man. Because dehydrated potatoes are such a new product, information on their vitamin C and iron content is not yet available.

Watch potato garnishes for mounting calories. Weight-watchers would do well to include potatoes in their diet because of the vitamin C and iron they provide, but they should be sparing with the amount of butter, gravy, or sour cream they add. A medium size potato has 90 calories, but the extras can boost this figure considerably.

About 2 tablespoons of sour cream will add 60 calories to a potato whereas a tablespoon of butter will add 100 calories, according to Professor Lola Dudgeon of the Foods and Nutrition Department of Cornell University. About a half cup of gravy made with water adds 105 calories while the same amount of gravy made with milk adds 160 calories. A cup of mashed potatoes made with milk and butter and served with milk gravy has 390 calories.

At the Markets

EGGS: March is Egg Month, an industry-wide effort to inform consumers of the values of eggs. Production of eggs reaches a seasonal peak in March and April. In addition cold storage holdings of eggs are much higher than a year ago.

Egg prices continue at levels well below a year ago. For the week ending February 4, large, Grade A eggs were priced at 12 cents per dozen and medium, Grade A at 10 cents per dozen less than a year earlier. These price differentials are likely to prevail through March and part of April. However, the price of large eggs will decline relative to that of medium eggs and will soon become the economical egg buy. Not only will eggs be exceptionally plentiful and low in price during March and April, but quality will be at its yearly high as well.

PORK: Pork will continue in good supply for some time. After advancing for several weeks, hog prices at Chicago have declined, so retail pork cuts should remain low for many weeks.

SHRIMP: Cold storage holdings of shrimp are about one-sixth greater than a year ago. In addition imports continue heavy so supplies for Lent are especially favorable for consumers.

ORANGES and ORANGE PRODUCTS: Frozen orange juice stocks in cold storage are nearly double last year and are one-third greater than the 1954-58 average.

OTHER MARCH PLENTIFULS: Milk and Dairy Products, Peanuts and Peanut Products, Cranberry Products, Canned Freestone Peaches, Rice, Cabbage, Celery, Carrots, Almonds, Filberts, Raisins and Lard.

ENTERTAINING MANY IN A SMALL HOUSE

Dear Mrs. Post: We have a very dear friend who is to be married soon. She has lots of friends, old and young, whom we would like to invite. We have a nice house but not large enough to accommodate all the guests at the same time. Will you please tell me how to word the invitations so that the guests will know that the party is to be a come-and-go one and not remain throughout the afternoon.

Answer: If you invite guests to come in between certain specified hours — say four to six o'clock, it should be taken to mean that guests are expected to come in any time between these hours, stay a short while and leave. Some guests may come early and stay late but a majority of them will "come and go."

A Ring From a Man

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend and I have had several heated discussions as to the propriety of a young woman accepting a valuable ring from a man. I believe that she should not accept such a present unless the ring is an engagement ring, and she does not agree.

Answer: No young woman can possibly accept a ring of value from a man excepting as an engagement ring. She might wear a ring of his, as many school and college girls do, and even this means that she is his "best girl." But the giving and receiving of a ring has always been taken seriously.

A Name Beginning With Mc

Dear Mrs. Post: My name is Mary Jones and I am soon to be married to a man named McDougall. In having my linens marked, do I use the initials M. J. M. or is it necessary to have them marked M. J. McD. I have had various opinions on this and would like to know what is correct.

Answer: Most correctly your initials will be M. J. McD., but as this makes five initials which is really too many to use in marking your linens, I suggest leaving out the J. and using M. McD.

Have a Sore Throat?

Common throat ailments often used to be considered quite a nuisance and grandfather had to resign himself to his catarrh. But not now because medical researchers have recently learned a great deal, we are told, about throat troubles and how to relieve them.

The sore throat with its accompanying hawking, wheezing, pain, fever and general ill-feeling is about as much of a problem today as it ever had been in the days of the witch doctor and medicine man.

Sore throat is frequently associated with chronic colds, sinusitis, enlarged tonsils, too much smoking, adenoids, as well as constant breathing through the mouth. Probably no other area of the body is as prone to a secondary infection as is the pharynx.

The primitive medicine man often prescribed a tea brewed from wild indigo or St. Ignatius bean for ulcerated and swollen tonsils. Babylon and Assyrian physicians of about 2000 B. C. tried to cure the sore throat by taking a combination of specially-treated fluids and pouring them OVER the patient.

A British physician of 1676 cooked up a syrup of mashed garlic and brown sugar which he fed to sore throat victims. Maybe this did not cure the sore throat, but the garlic on the patient's breath must have kept other people so far away that the sore throat could not have had much chance to spread.

In France the Yellow Juliana is an old fashioned throat restorer and is called "Herbe aux Chanteurs." We are told that the jailer's wife used to bring a bunch of these flowers mixed with jonquils and tuberoses to Marie Antoinette, while she was in prison. But whether they were used medically or for consolation is not known.

Some of us may remember the sovereign sore throat treatment cooked up a few years back. As soon as the coughing, sniffles and sneezes started, grandma or even Mom would put a pot of lard to melt on the stove. Goose grease or bear grease could also be used. When it was all melted, turpentine was added and the resulting gook was spread generously on the neck, chest and back. Over this was wrapped a layer of wool and then, over all, came the long winter underwear, buttoned top and bottom.

This did not affect the sore throat but it sure was a good way to use any rancid fats that had been saved up!

Actually a sore throat is not as difficult to relieve as many people have been led to believe. Treatment is likely to be more successful when the diagnosis is definite and the cause known.

Regardless of method or brand of treatment, the sore throat remains as common as it is expensive. In the course of an average year, according to the U. S. Public Health Service, a whopping 25,000,000 cases show up in the nation — enough to supply one out of every four people with a sore throat each year. In cold cash the cost in lost work days amounts to some $2,000,000,000 annually and more than $32,000,000 is spent annually on a variety of cures and treatments.

Speaking for myself, having just experienced a good cold and sore throat, there just isn't anything that can compare to a warm water and salt gargle.

But then again that's old fashioned too, isn't it?

MR. AND MRS. JOHN C. WEEKLY

Miss Dorothy May Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Eckert of St. Remy, wed John C. Weekly of 158 Washington Avenue, Sunday, Feb. 14, at 2 p. m. in St. Joseph's Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Nels Wennersten of Kingston and the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Scully of 158 Washington Avenue, this city.

Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Joseph Wall of Sacred Heart Church in Esopus. Mrs. Frank Rafferty was organist and Robert Gallo was soloist. Selections included "Ave Maria," and "Mother At Thy Feet Is Kneeling."

White gladioli and white pompons decorated the church for the occasion. The pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a Chantilly lace gown styled with fitted bodice, scalloped neckline outlined with pearls and sequins, and a bouffant skirt of lace which swept back into a cathedral train of accordion pleats. A queen's crown of sequins and pearls held a three tiered veil of French illusion. The bride carried a lace covered prayer book with a white orchid.

The bridesmaids wore gowns styled identically to that worn by the honor attendant except in colors of emerald green, turquoise, royal rose, cotillion blue, baby pink. Serving as bridesmaids were Gertrude Landi of St. Remy, the bride's sister-in-law; Beatrice Jordan of St. Remy; Dorothy Carboni of Kingston; Linda Schneider of Kingston; Barbara Auringer of Port Ewen; and Judy Libbos of St. Remy. Serving as junior bridesmaids were Linda Eckert, the bride's sister, and Mary Wennersten the bridegroom's sister.

Arlene Wennersten, the bridegroom's sister, served as flower girl in a nile green gown styled identically to that worn by the honor attendant. She carried a hand bouquet of matching carnations.

Claude W. Weekly was best man for his brother. Ushers were Terry Corkery of Kingston; Dave Beehler of Connelly; Joseph Mauceri of Kingston; Joseph Lawrence of Bayonne, N. J.; Joseph Giunta of Kingston and Miro Landi. Junior ushers were Orlando Landi, the bride's nephew and John Rosebrook of Kingston. Joseph Landi of St. Remy was ringbearer as well as Martin Jordan of St. Remy.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, wore a brown wool sheath with matching short jacket, mink collar and green accessories for her trip to Washington, D. C. She also wore a white orchid. She is employed by the Credit Bureau of Kingston. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and is employed by Western Printing in Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Weekly will be at home at 223 Hurley Avenue, this city, when they return.

Sisterhood Board Meeting Scheduled At Temple Emanuel

The board meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel will be held on Wednesday, March 2, at 12:30 p. m. in the social hall of the Temple. A new Constitution is to be adopted and other important matters will be discussed. It is urged that all members of the board attend. Take a box lunch. Coffee and cake will be served by the Sisterhood.

Mrs. Herbert Kletske, president, reports that at the last monthly meeting Mrs. Herbert Greenwald gave an interesting review of the book, "This Is My God," by Herman Wouk. Mrs. Greenwald pointed out the beautiful work of the author in describing his point of view of the Jewish religion. His well known style and interesting presentation of the topic made the book worthwhile reading, although the speaker could not entirely agree with the point of view of the author and found certain discrepancies in his explanations.

At the business meeting the forthcoming holidays of Purim were discussed and an appeal was made to members to have Rabbi Bloom know how many families are interested in a public Seder, to be held Monday, April 11, in the social hall of the Temple. The forthcoming Donor Luncheon, chaired by Mrs. Joseph Honig and Mrs. Sidney D. Wolff, to be held April 20th, ws also brought to the attention of the members. Several new members and guests were introduced and refreshments were served by the hostesses of the evening.

The president proffered an invitation from the Sisterhood of Congregation Ahavath Israel who will be hostesses of the Tri-Sisterhood Meeting on Wednesday, March 9, in the social hall of their congregation.

Port Ewen Chief Files District's Annual Report

The annual report of Port Ewen Fire District was released for publication this week by Fire Chief Edward F. Mains of Port Ewen Fire Department.

"Each year at this time we attempt to finish our year of obligations to our Port Ewen Fire District, and to pay a tribute to the officers and volunteer firemen whose service may be measured not only of ordinary value. They are delighted to serve, and have no thought of temporal return, theirs was a gift of their hearts, because they gave themselves.

"The basic thoughts in our minds are, that we are living in an age of calculated risks. We are also living in an age of heavy demands being placed upon our tax dollar.

"Some of you may feel there is no relationship to the success of a business undertaking, to the general fire service and its future success.

"If we go back through fire service we realize that there are many elements which contribute to our success, the desire of man made laws, has given the fire service a real reason to succeed.

"First it was the responsibility to our neighbors, and then our community. Some of you ask the question, where does responsibility begin and where does it end. It is very easy to conclude that it never ends. The fire service today is in the same position, except it is the one that establishes and maintains the economic faith and credit of a community.

"The fire chief with his officers analyzes his community and determines the areas of hazards. Our failure to recognize our responsibilities, which are currently placed before us each day, but we must plan and train ourselves to additional responsibilities.

"In the years of 1936 through 1940, I reported concern over the oil storage tanks in the fire district, and finally in 1940, Harry Newell, assistant chief engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, made a survey covering the storage tanks.

"I again brought to the attention of our fire board in 1956, the necessity for an ordinance covering the existing bulk storage plants and new storage plants for flammable liquids. I would again request the Board of Commissioners to place before the Town Board of the Town of Esopus a fire prevention code recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, requesting study and ultimate adoption.

"In 1939-51 and 1956 I brought attention to the parking in our streets and parking in front of hydrants.

"In 1957 I brought before the Board of Commissioners, the State Building Code, and last year this was adopted by the town board with an inspector appointed.

"We now have a group of women, some being trained nurses who are willing to work as our first aid group, in conjunction with our first aid men of the fire department.

"Clearing house proposal No. 23, that a class of instruction in fire prevention be a 'must' study at all state teachers colleges, and all state universities, thus qualifying all teachers to teach this much needed safety instructions.

"With the arrival of winter, the danger of fire increases, heating systems are placed in operation, and people spend more time indoors.

"Principal causes of fires at night are failure to have heater cleaned and adjusted, rubbish in cellar, chimney and flue defects, and careless smoking causes many fires, with people losing their lives.

"We are thankful to the fire commissioners and chiefs of the City of Kingston, Fire Districts of Esopus, St. Remy and Rifton, where firemen and equipment are always ready to come to our assistance, and for which we are ready to reciprocate at any time.

"We are thankful to our Town Board and all elected and appointed officers of our town.

We are thankful to our Ladies Auxiliary who bring hot coffee and sandwiches to the firemen at all fires, and the Port Ewen Fire Department Drum Corps, who furnish the music in parades.

I am thankful to our Board of Fire Commissioners, who furnish a nice firehouse and fire apparatus to work with and to our taxpayers who made this possible, and to the officers and firemen, and members of our Fire Police who learn to use and do use this fire equipment in case of fire or emergencies.

"Fire prevention material was posted in the fire district and fire drills and inspections were held in the local schools.

"During last year the fire department responded to 21 calls in the district covering alarms on five houses, a motel, five cars, six grass fires, a number of barges and a gasoline tank leak. The department also answered a call to find a lost boy.

"A total of 2,235 feet of hose was laid and the trucks traveled 289 miles.

"The department answered a Mutual Aid call from Esopus Fire District at Mirror Lake Lodge. At Mott's cooler, Ulster Park, the firemen covered 31 miles and laid 1,350 feet of hose. They also covered the Connelly woods and Clark home fire at Forsyth Hill, and covered for Kingston by standing by at Central Fire Station.

EDWARD F. MAINS, fire chief

Saugerties C of C Reports Status of Industrial Folio

Saugerties Area Chamber of Commercie industrial committee presented a third preliminary draft of its proposed 30-page industrial brochure at the Wednesday night meeting held in Saugerties village clerk's office.

Andrew P. Vozdick, committee chairman, who reported on the progress of the Chamber's brochure, presented copies of the New York Central System's 42-page book on industrial sites which features some 155 acres in the Churchland-Mt. Marion area between the Thruway and the railroad.

Reports on Meeting

Vozdick reported on a special meeting held during Wednesday at Kingston, attended by area business men, city, county and town officials, and others interested in the industrial expansion of the Hudson Valley.

He pointed out that in order for Saugerties to take its proper place in the industrial expansion of the Mid-Hudson Valley, the Chamber's brochure detailing the vital facts, figures, and facilities of the Town of Saugerties must be completed and published as quickly as possible. He said that typewritten copies of the brochure, not completely edited, were available in the event that a presentation must be made to firms inquiring about plant sites before the booklet is published.

Vozdick cited the work of Peter Pocalyko, a member of the committee, who gave much of his time toward working on the preliminary copies and the cover.

Committee to Meet

He said the industrial committee will meet Wednesday 8 p. m. at the office of Hudson Valley Equipment Company, Ulster Avenue to work on the final draft of the brochure.

Executive Secretary Alfred McMullen reported he had made contacts of some of the new businesses in Saugerties, and has signed some as new members and received assurances from others, that they would join.

Ben Fein, working on the parking committee, spoke of an idea of feeding parking meters with nickels at Lake George by the police, rather than giving tickets. He pointed out that the project there has created a tremendous amount of good will for the community. He said that after considerable study with local village officials, he was of the opinion that the plan would not be workable in Saugerties. However, he said the committee was working on another plan, that of issuing courtesy cards on the cars of motorists granting an extra 15 minutes of overtime parking.

Various facets of the parking problem and abuses attributed to some of the merchants and their employes was discussed at great length. The problem of permitting contractors to park their trucks all day in front of the place they are working was also discussed.

Discuss State Pageant

Alex Osina, chairman of the promotion committee reported on the prospect of entering Nancy Misasi, Miss Saugerties of 1960 in the Miss New York State Pageant in Kingston during July.

Osina reported he would check the possibility of securing a franchise which would permit the entry of Miss Saugerties in the state contest, in the event an Ulster County contest fails to produce a sponsor.

Lynker made several proposals for changes in the by-laws. The changes will be submitted to the members in writing and will be voted on at the next two meetings.

Susskind Assails TV Leadership; Calls for Action

NEW YORK (AP) — David Susskind, television and Broadway producer, said Wednesday night that "quite feeble, quite bad" TV programing threatens to produce a nation of "driveling idiots."

Susskind called the TV industry's leadership inept and unimaginative, and declared:

"The time has come when we've got to wake up and do something about television."

He said TV programs are leading the nation downhill to conformity.

Susskind made the remarks in addressing the annual dinner of the Broadcasting and Film Commission, an agency of the National Council of Churches.

Basically, he said, the many faults of television can be traced to an indifferent and apathetic public "too lazy to worry about a great medium."

Noting that many TV officials argue that the programs are diversion, intended to take viewers away from their problems, Susskind said:

"We're so far away we are losing missile races, thinking races, educational races."

Susskind suggested more diversified programing — including opera, symphonies, discussions, drama and satire—and new faces and formats. More programs of public interest and documentaries are needed, he said, "and not as a salve to a badly ridden conscience."

He urged that more controversial topics be put on the air," and added: "An aim to win everybody results in winning nobody."

Sergeants Back After Two-Week Space Test Ride

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Two veterans of simulated space travel return to earth today after a two weeks make believe rocket ride.

Technical Sergeants William W. Henderson, 30, Alice, Tex., and Hobart M. Craft, 36, Wedowee, Ala., are scheduled to emerge at noon from a "shakedown" cruise in an 8 by 12 foot simulated space ship cabin.

The two-man trip began 3:20 p.m., Feb. 4, at Brooks Air Force Base here and is the longest experiment of its kind.

Just a year ago Airman Donald Farrell of New Yor City spent seven days in a one-man space cabin. He crawled out of the cramped quarters four pounds lighter but unaffected otherwise.

The sergeants have more room than Farrell did. They can stand and move a few steps each way.

The pressure inside the elliptical steel tank has been maintained at a simulated altitude of 18,000 feet. At one end of the tank is an instrument jammed control board with two padded roll around chairs. While one man slept the other remained on duty at the control board.

Outside the space cabin a crew of scientists and technicians kept a constant watch on the experiment through a closed circuit television system and portholes equipped with one-way glass.

American-Italian Cagers Romp to 10th Straight Win

Feature Sports, the Fugazy-Cohn entente hoping to promote the Patterson-Johansson re-match, is readying a shocker for boxing on whom they really bought out when they acquired the fight rights from Vincent Velella and Bill Rosensohn. . . .

West Virginia is a camp divided over Art (Skin of His Teeth) Lewis . . . and that extends to the football squad, which could break out in dissension next fall with pro and anti-Lewis factions.

Pancho Gonzales says the Inca chief, Alex Olmedo, is the best rookie he's ever seen coming into the pro tennis tour . . . and the prideful Peruvian isn't inclined to disagree. . . . How long will it take, Alex, before you're beating Pancho? . . . "Not long." . . . even Jake Kramer admits, "I thought I bought a bum who had a chance to be good. Instead, I got a good one who has a chance to be great." . . . "All he needs is better thinking while on the court." . . .

Kramer also says 31-year-old Pancho is at the top of his game because of two factors: 1) concentration—"He's never out of a match, pulls out set points regularly"; 2) "He's in love." . . .

The morning after Steve Sebo was fired by Penn, he was shaving . . . and wondering what to do about a job when the name of Harry Wismer, an old Michigan State classmate, popped into mind. . . . Wismer had just organized the New York Titans . . . Must have been mental telepathy, for two hours later, without any prodding, Wismer called him and made him the general manager of the new pro grid club. . . .

Could Jim Swink, the old TCU All-American, and Herschel Forester, retired Browns guard, be thinking of coming back for Lamar Hunt's Dallas Texans? . . . In Swink's case, it would help defray medical school costs. . . .

Fight manager Ernie Bracca, finally giving up on Tony Anthony, has a new heavyweight prospect . . . who got in trouble socking guys on the street for making slurring remarks . . . so his dad, a wealthy garment manufacturer, took him to Bracca to work out some of that anger . . . and make a little money doing it . . . this kid is 6-2 and weighs 220.

Rory Calhoun invites a clobbering when he persists in his dangerous new habit of pawing at his trunks with his right mitt before unloading a punch . . . he'll get walloped between paws. . . .

Why Syracuse coach Paul Seymour wasn't suspended for attacking referee Sid Borgia in full view of thousands: Borgia later admitted to NBA president Maurice Podoloff that he made a wrong call on the play which made Seymour blow his top . . . and, of course, Borgia didn't help his cause by shoving Seymour, too. . . .

George Mikan's a newly turned stockbroker . . . and in New York for a month's training program . . . also a visitor—Auburn guard Zeke Smith, being wooed by the Titans in a triangular tug-of-war with Toronto and Baltimore. . . .

Red Rocha, deposed by the Detroit Pistons, could have had the Cincinnati Royals job (where, as tipped off here, Tom Marshall is through) three weeks ago . . . but Red wants to start from scratch beginning of next season and is available under those terms. . . . Some of the pros are wondering why Cincy and Minny, low in the west, are building up league-leading St. Louis strength . . . and what's behind it? . . .

Young welterweight Denny Moyer is so wrapped up in boxing that when he spent two weeks in Boston before kayoing Tony DeMarco, he wouldn't take time out to watch pro hockey, pro basketball or an indoor track meet . . . afraid it would disturb his concentration. . . .

Between you'n'me, it's admirable that a guy hangs on to his bucks, but a former boxing champ is getting to be known as just plain "cheap" in the many circles he travels . . . won't even tip porters . . . If there's someone else in the crowd to lay out cash.

American-Italian Restaurant cagers are undefeated with 10 straight wins in the YMCA Basketball League, thanks to a thrilling 71-69 overtime conquest of Sickler's Delivery on the Y boards last night.

Dick Terlingen's hook shot with four seconds remaining in the first overtime period decided the thrilling contest. Terlingen also wound up as high scorer for the game with 20.

Trailing 21-9 at the first quarter and 35-32 at the half, Sickler's rallied beautifully to effect a 65-65 regulation deadlock after some fancy last second heroics in the fourth quarter.

Marty Kaye of the A-I and Herm Sickler of Sickler's traded fourth quarter last-second baskets to send the game into overtime.

Terlingen Hits 20

Terlingen's 20 paced a group of double figure shooters, including Tony Grimaldi (18), Andy Juhl (14) and Marty Kaye (13) on his own squad. Joe Klonowski led Sickler's with 18. Bob Bondar rimmed 15 and Hermie Sickler had 14.

Pageantry Greets Olympic Contests at Squaw Valley

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—The Eighth Winter Olympics marred by the usual squabbles, open today with traditional pageantry in this recently developed, 20-million-dollar resort in the Sierra Nevada.

Despite the kinks that have shown through in this massive building operation, all facilities are expected to be in good shape for the start of the 10 days of competition on Friday.

The opening events include championships in the 30-kilometer cross-country ski race, the men's downhill, the pairs in figure skating, and the first round of the hockey tournament. A total of 740 athletes from 30 nations is entered in the 27 events, with the Soviet Union expected to dominate.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, following Olympic protocol, will set the games in motion with the following words:

There was to be brilliant fireworks, a choir of 2,645 voices, the raising of the flags, the parade of the Olympians, the thrilling moment when the Olympic Torch bursts into flame, and the recitation of the Olympic oath by lovely Carol Heiss, the American queen of the figure skaters.

The Soviets, talent rich in men and women's speed skating and the Nordic ski events, are expected to dominate the competition and are rated a strong chance to capture 13 of the 27 gold medals.

U.S. hopes rest with the figure skaters — world champions Carol Heiss of Ozone Park, N.Y., and David Jenkins of Colorado Springs — and the formidable female Alpine ski squad headed by Penny Pitou of Gilford, N.H., and Betsy Snite of Norwich, Vt.

St. Louis Is in Line For Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Friday night could bring the St. Louis Hawks' fourth straight National Basketball Assn. Western Division title now that they have clinched at least a tie.

All it takes is a victory by the Hawks over the Minneapolis Lakers or a Boston victory over second-place Detroit.

The Hawks clinched the tie Wednesday night with a 131-127 victory over the Lakers in the first game of a doubleheader in Philadelphia. Wilt Chamberlain scored 33 points in leading the Philadelphia Warriors to a 123-116 nightcap win over Syracuse, keeping alive the Warriors' faint hopes to overtake Boston for the Eastern title. Boston has a 7½-game edge with 13 to play. The Warriors have 12 games remaining.

Rookie Bob Ferry broke the last of three ties in the final five minutes for the Hawks' victory, making two foul shots with a minute and 48 seconds to play.

Stitch Shook Smith Despite Eye Defect

Syracuse End Named New Harvard Coach

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Paul McKee, an end for Syracuse University in the 1940s, is the new assistant football coach at Harvard.

McKee, who also played for the Washington Redskins, was named Wednesday to replace Alex Bell, who recently became Villanova head coach.

McKee, 37, has been head coach and athletic director at Consolidated High School in Verona, N. Y., for three years.

The Wiltwyck Wizard of the cue stick picked up high runs of 35, 21 and 23 to trounce Billy Costello, 145-49, and remain undefeated.

Bonnies Defeat Villanova 72-70 For 11 Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Bonaventure, paving its way to the National Invitation Tournament with a string of victories, won its 11th straight Wednesday night by beating Villanova, 72-70.

The state's tournament hopeful, the University of Buffalo, demolished the University of Rochester, 74-68, to improve its chance for an invitation to the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.'s small-college gathering.

St. Bonaventure, with an NIT bid in its pocket, was led against Villanova, also NIT bound, by Tom Stith. The Bonnies' star scored 30 points and set a St. Bonaventure individual scoring record for one season. His 532 points erased Mal Duffy's 1954-55 record of 507.

At Buffalo, Nick Shosho, a sophomore, led the Bulls with 19 points to their 10th victory in 14 games. Rochester has a 9-6 record.

In other games:

Syracuse, playing host, scored 10 free throws in the final eight minutes to defeat Canisius, 74-71. The Orangemen revenged a Canisius victory last month behind Ed Goldberg, who paced Syracuse with 25 points.

At Hamilton, Colgate fought off a stubborn St. Lawrence team as rangy Ed Norum scored 10 straight points during a second-half spurt. He had 21 points for the night.

Host Oswego State ripped Cortland, 78-66, and Albany State whipped visiting New Britain, 75-67.

Schaefer Plays Goalie Post as Worsley Is Hurt

NEW YORK (AP) — For seven years, Joe Schaefer, the standby goalie for the New York Rangers has longed to get into a National Hockey League game.

The dream came true for the 35-year-old Schaefer Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden after Gump Worsley, the Rangers' regular goalie was forced to leave the game against the Chicago Black Hawks when his right hand was cut by a skate.

It would have made a Cinderella story for Schaefer, who plays amateur hockey in New Jersey every Sunday in addition to practicing with the Rangers, if New York had won.

But the Hawks scored two goals against him in the second period and added three more in the finale for a 5-1 victory. Toronto beat Boston 3-1 in another NHL game.

Worsley will be lost to the Rangers for the season. Coach Pike said he would confer with Manager Muzz Patrick as to whom will replace Worsley.

Hank Hurts Hand But Defeats Kid Rodriquez in 6th

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Bad luck has caught up with Henry Hank, the bright new middleweight title prospect.

The ex-Detroit zoo keeper and father of five children broke his right hand on the last punch that cracked into Sixto (Kid) Rodriguez' jaw Wednesday night. He is expected to be out of action for a couple of months.

His savage attack stopped the California light-heavyweight champion from San Anselmo in the sixth round of a scheduled nationally televised 10 rounder in Chicago Stadium. It was Hank's sixth straight victory and 29th knockout.

"That last punch did it," said the dejected Hank, 24, who was being groomed for a probable shot at the No. 1 midleweight contender, Spider Webb, in San Francisco in April—that is, if Webb were to get by Bobo Olson in their match next week.

He was taken to a hospital and X-rays showed a fracture. The attending physician said Hank will have to wear a cast and will be out of action from six to eight weeks.

Rodriguez, being stopped for the first time in absorbing only his third loss in 29 starts, was rocked in every round but didn't go down. Hank weighed 162½ pounds to his foe's 165½.

Tucson Winner Will Knock 16 Off Par Today

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The winner of the $22,500 Tucson Open Golf Tournament that starts today is going to knock at least 16 strokes off par, the host pro believes.

That would give him a 72-hole total of 264 or better, the lowest of the winter tour to date.

This list includes Billy Casper, the U. S. Open king; Bob Rosburg, PGA champ; Art Wall Jr., Masters titleholder; Gene Littler, the defending champ; Jerry Barber, Yorba Linda Open winner; Arnold Palmer, winner at Palm Springs; Jack Fleck, No. 1 in the Phoenix Open; Doug Ford, Joe Campbell and others.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, pro at El Rio Golf and Country Club, believes his course is in such good shape that someone will get nine birdies on a single round for a 61.

Efforts have been made to toughen the flat, 6,434-yard, par 35-35—70 layout. A dozen traps have been added. Others have been deepened. Tees have been moved.

Tom Stith Gets 30 Points As Bonnies Take Victory

The 6-5 basketball star dazzled fans Wednesday night with his array of shots. He tallied 30 points to help the 14-th-ranked Bonnies to their 11th straight victory, a 72-70 triumph over ninth-ranked Villanova.

He brought his season's total to 532 points and wiped out the previous St. Bonaventure single season record of 507 set by Mal Duffy of Brooklyn in 1954-55.

Stith, the nation's second leading scorer, now needs only 156 points in five regular season games to break the Bonnies' career scoring record of 1,090 points set in 1946-50 by Ken Murray of West Orange, N. J.

One of Stith's biggest boosters is coach Ed Donovan.

He's great on both offense and defense," Donovan said after the contest which matched two NIT-bound clubs in a top eastern battle.

"We play an aggressive type defense and he has to protect the middle," Donovan explained. "He does a great job."

The unassuming 21-year-old said he certainly would like to be an All-America. "Anyone would," he laughed.

Injured Goalie May Stay In Squaw Valley Events

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—"Sure, I know these things happen—but you always ask, Why did it happen to me'," said Larry Palmer, injured goalie of the U.S. Olympic hockey team.

Dr. William Atmore, team physician, said Wednesday that Palmer's injury may be a ligament strain, and not a damage cartilage as was feared at first. Atmore said he thought Palmer had a chance to play in the Olympics.

Monti Betters Bobsled Record At Lake Placid

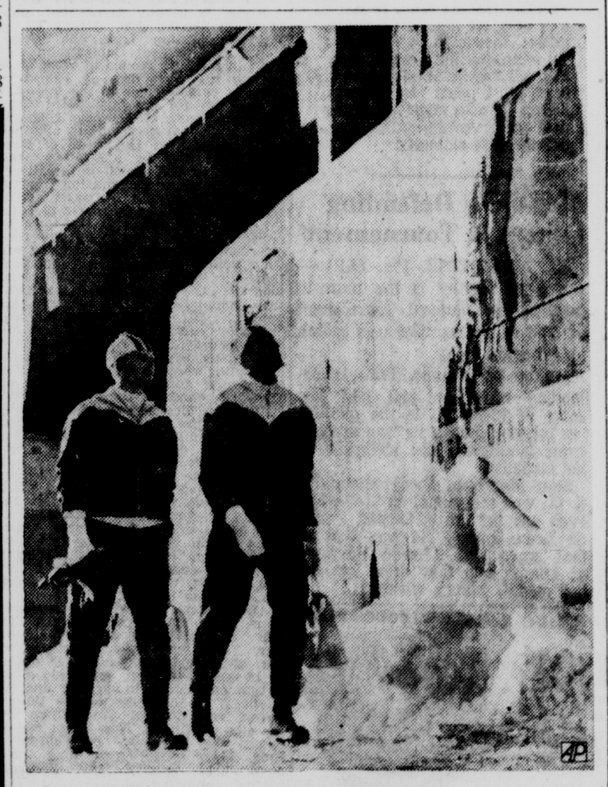

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP)—World Champion Eugenio Monti is establishing himself as the favorite in the North American Bobsled Champions with a succession of record times.

Monti set the record of one minute, 12 seconds last Sunday in the National AAU two-man championships, which he won.

The 32-year-old Italian eclipsed the one minute, 12.60 second mark that Stanley Benham of Lake Placid had held since Feb. 16, 1957.

McHale Hopeful Burdette Will Sign Contract

MILWAUKEE (AP) — General Manager John McHale of the Milwaukee Braves says he and star pitcher Lew Burdette aren't as far apart on their contract talks as some people imagine.

"I'm not worried at all," McHale said in his arrival Wednesday.

Nevertheless, Burdette started the way-far-apart-talk Wednesday when he told Joe Reichler of The Associated Press that he'll either get a healthy salary boost from the Braves or he'll sign only when Milwaukee's Stadium freezes over.

Burdette claimed he was offered a 22 per cent cut from his 1959 salary, which he said was around $36,000. This McHale said just wasn't so.

"He was inaccurate as to the figures," McHale said, hinting broadly that Lew's salary for last year should be considered in the $40,000 range. He wouldn't comment on the 22 per cent reduction figure and he wouldn't elaborate.

McHale said he is aware that Burdette in past years has had a reputation as a man who drives a hard bargain but that he has always signed.

"I'll talk with Burdette and I think we'll reach an agreement," McHale added.

Three Places in Calder Cup Play Series Are Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Springfield Indians pretty well have first place sewn up in the American Hockey League this year, but the remaining three places for the Calder Cup playoff series are up for grabs by four teams—none of which is giving an inch.

Buffalo now owns third place by two points over the Providence Reds, after defeating second place Rochester Wednesday night, 5-3. And the Bisons are only three points out of second. Just to complicate matters, the fifth place Cleveland Barons trail Providence by only three points.

But the Bisons, who led 4-0 early in the second period, almost didn't make it as Rochester came back with three quick goals, two by Pat Hannigan, to trail by only one. Larry Wilson's goal in the final period clinched it for Buffalo.

Billy Dea, Larry Kurchur and Howie Glover scored first period goals for Buffalo and Frank Martin added one in the second period before Howie Young and Hannigan went to work.

This was the only game scheduled Wednesday night in the AHL.

St. Mary's Tops St. Joseph Five

St. Mary's notched a 19-18 win over St. Joseph's II in a CYO Jayvee game recently at the George Washington School.

The scoring:

St. Mary's (19)—Conlin (2), Bonomo (4), Tomey (3), Munson (8), Beichert (2), C. Bonomo. St. Joseph's (18)—Rigney (2), Hogan (2), McGowan (14), Schrick, Klun, Bruhn.

Robertson Eyes Third National Scoring Honors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson heads down the stretch of his last college basketball season virtually assured of his third straight national scoring title.

But the fabulous Big O may have to yield some of the national spotlight to a hot-shooting Auburn team.

With Robertson sailing along with a 36.6 average on 731 points in 20 games and a clear lead over St. Bonaventure's Tom Stith, Auburn is quietly moving into a position to become the first team in basketball history to lead the nation in both field goal and free throw shooting.

Statistics from the NCAA Service Bureau in New York today show the Tigers have hit 419 of 814 field goal attempts for an unprecedented .515 percentage. At the free throw line, Auburn has nailed 338 out of 431 for .784 per cent.

Lipscomb Must Pay $900 Back Alimony

The Superior Court commissioner warned him Wednesday he must catch up on his alimony payments to Mrs. Ophelia Lipscomb. She contended he owed her $1,875 under her 1955 divorce decree. She said he had been sending her $75 a month support for two minor children, but none for her.

P-TA Award

Shapiro Honored, Given NCPT Life Membership Card

Robert Shapiro was honored Wednesday night at a meeting of Saugerties Parent-Teacher Association by receiving an honorary life membership in the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

This award was given because of his outstanding contribution to the local association. Shapiro has served on the banquet committee and the benefit movie committee for several years.

For some time he has acted as treasurer and has served in an advisory capacity. His efforts in behalf of Saugerties Parent-Teacher Association have contributed immeasurably to the success of the organization.

Charles Rice, committee chairman and Harry Hoffman, member of Saugerties Board of Education discussed the increased enrollment in the district, and the building situation.

Hoffman outlined two possible construction plans which will be presented in a later press release.

M-WC Auxiliary Makes Final Plans For Chief's Night

Final arrangements for the first annual chief's night and fifth anniversary celebration of Malden-West Camp Fire Company to be held 7 p. m. Saturday at West Camp Parish Hall were outlined at the Tuesday night meeting of the fire company auxiliary at Malden fire station.

The event to commemorate the founding of the volunteer fire company over five years ago, will honor the five fire chiefs who have served during that time.

Past chief's pins will be presented to Charter Chief Valmore F. Carpenter, Charles Teetsel, Steve Musan, Harold W. Bennett and William R. Wrolsen.

The auxiliary set May 7 for the date of its annual banquet at a place to be announced. Mrs. Margaret Moose and Mrs. Mildred Carpenter are on the committee for arrangements. The firemen will be invited to attend.

Mrs. Martha Gardner was named chairman of a committee authorized to purchase 10 card tables and 40 chairs for Malden fire station.

A resolution was approved to change the regular meeting night from the third Tuesday to the first Tuesday of the month. The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, March 1 at West Camp station.

Work on the kitchen installation at West Camp fire station is currently in progress. The project was financed jointly by the auxiliary and the volunteer fire company.

Mrs. Carl Heese Jr., president of the auxiliary was in charge of the meeting.

Methodists Study Organization Plan

A special committee has been set up by the membership and evangelism commission of Saugerties Methodist Church, to prepare a new plan of church organization based upon neighborhood group units of 8 or 10 families, it was announced today.

This committee composed of James Thompson, chairman; John Whritenor, Lloyd Eyler and Gerald Rosenberger, will meet Monday night to study details of the new plan.

The church has grown to the extent that a more intimate connection is desired between the 640 members and the church. This plan, which groups all resident church members into small geographical neighborhood units each with a group leader, has been found effective in a growing number of larger churches. A map of the area is being prepared for the church by Jack Pakanen.

Each family will be located on the map by use of colored pins, the area delineated by boundary lines, and the identity of the neighborhood leader for that neighborhood marked on the map.

It is envisioned by the committee at present, Thompson said, that about 30 neighborhood groups will be formed for all members within a radius of about 10 miles of the church. These will be grouped into three general areas, each with a chairman: (a) The Village of Saugerties and northward; (b) the area west and southwest of Saugerties; (c) the area south of Saugerties toward Kingston—including the developments.

There are many uses and purposes which can be served by this type of neighborhood organization. The first use to be made of the new plan, is "The Total Committment Program," which will call for reappraisal of committment to the church in (a) our worship and witness (church attendance); (b) our material possessions (regular giving); (c) our ability and willingness to serve (holding office); and (d) our influence and personal life.

A folder entitled, "My Total Enlistment" will be given to each member for study and action.

M-WC Brownies Plan to Stage Own Puppet Show

Brownie Troop 133, sponsored by Malden-West Camp Fire Company Auxiliary will celebrate the 48th anniversary of Girl Scouting in America at a celebration party featuring a puppet show Saturday, March 12, at West Camp Firehouse.

Troop Leader Mrs. June Lewis and Mrs. Carl Heese Jr., assistant, announced plans for the event to be held at 2 p. m.

Brownies of the troop will stage their own puppet show with dolls made at the Brownie meetings prior to the event. The girls of the troop will also write the story to be depicted.

Members of the troop include Elinor Heese, Diana Lewis, Brenda Pavlinik, Diane Bartells, Irene and Gerda Fisher, Debby Strbich, Diana Heller, Barbara Emerick, Sharon Moon, and Linda Linzey. Virginia Heese will also be inducted into the troop at some future meeting.

The troop meets on Mondays from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Lewis at the corner of Evesport Road and Route 9W. Parents of eligible girls are welcome to join. Information may be obtained from the leader.

Change in Schedule For Films of Shrines

A change in schedule has been announced for the showing of movies of the famous Canadian shrines, Monday, Feb. 22, at the municipal auditorium in Kingston.

An organ prelude by Joey Vigna will open the program at 8 p. m. and showing of the films will follow at 8:30. The change in schedule was made to accommodate persons atterding Novena services in the community.

The three films of the famous Canadian shrines include: "Our Lady of the Cape," "Ste Anne de Beaupre" and "St. Joseph's Shrine." The movies are both in color and sound.

The Rev. Father Rinfret, O.N.L., Director of Pilgrimages at the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Cape at Cap de La Madaleine, Quebec, Canada, is in charge of the film tour through New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Teresa L. Mayone of Glasco is in charge of local arrangements.

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese scientists say atmospheric radioactivity increased sharply over Japan Wednesday night, probably as a result of the French nuclear explosion in the Sahara Saturday.

The Central Meteorological Observatory said radiation of 2,900 counts per minute was recorded from rain which fell on Tokyo. In the past few months the radioactivity count has been about 100 a minute or less.

Smith Full Admiral

LONDON (AP) — Vice Adm. H. P. Smith became admiral today on assuming duties as commander in chief of U. S. naval forces, eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean. Adm. Smith formerly was chief of U. S. naval personnel in Washington.

Col. Chandler Is Honored by Kingston Rotary

Kingston Rotary Club on the occasion Wednesday of Past President's Day conferred honorary membership upon Col. George F. Chandler, who was one of the original members of the local service club which was founded here March 25, 1916. Arthur G. Carr, the only active charter member, also was honored at the weekly luncheon-meeting.

With the aid of the two honored local Rotary pioneers, Sam Scudder, a past president and former district governor, who was in charge of the program, briefly reviewed the origin and early years of Kingston Rotary. Rotarian Scudder, the club's historian, joined Kingston Rotary in 1920 and served as president in 1930-31. He was governor of the 33 clubs in District 721 for the 1957-58 fiscal year.

It was brought out that Willis Hills, the first president, Addison D. Pardee and Dr. Frank Keator were responsible for the organization of Kingston Rotary which was comprised of 20 members when the charter was received. The first meeting place was at the Eichler Hotel. The place of meeting changed down through the years to the West Shore Hotel, the YMCA, Eagle Hotel, Stuyvesant Hotel and currently the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Honored in 1917

Col. Chandler, who served as chief surgeon at the Kingston Hospital and who organized and was the first superintendent of New York State Police, was honored by his fellow Rotarians following his return from duty on the Mexican border on March 8, 1917. Dr. Charles Carter and William Niles, who were present on that occasion, also attended yesterday's meeting.

Among others present at the gathering in 1917 on "Chandler Day" were Dr. Frank B. Seeley, David Burgevin, Addison D. Pardee, Myron S. Teller, Thomas W. Flemming, John Hauck, Harry P. Dodge, Dr. Harold Clarke, Arthur C. Connelly, Francis Thornberry, Samuel Watts, Joseph Herbert, Palmer Canfield, Jr., John Gregory, Charles O'Connor and Tracy Tillson.

Rotary International is observing its 55th anniversary having been founded February 23, 1905 in Chicago. This world-wide service organization was organized by Paul P. Harris, who suggested the idea to a group of friends and with them organized a club, which was called the Rotary Club, because their first meetings were held in rotation in the offices of the various members.

Today there are some 9,500 Rotary Clubs in 100 countries with a membership of approximately 450,000 members.

Robber Gets $130

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The FBI was inside but the robber was outside Wednesday night as $130 was taken from the Embassy Theater. Miss Donna Ries, 19, the cashier, was held up. The picture playing inside was "The FBI Story."

Blind Pupils Give Fashion Display

Unusual?

Yes, when you consider that most of the models, the orchestra, and a good part of the audience were blind.

The event was staged at the Michigan School for the Blind. It was designed as a lesson in good grooming for the students.
